With her triple screws adjusted, she left the dock at League island and was placed in her berth at the Cramps' yard, where the work of preparation for the trial will be pushed forward.

heel torn off. The bomb was fired from an extempo rized mortar and was intended to be exploded high in the air, the explosion to be ac-companied by a shower of brilliant fire. Just as the charge was about to be fired, there was a deafening roar and the liquid fire and burning explosives, together with pieces of the mortar containing the bomb, were hurled in every direction. Hundreds of persons were standing about the spot and the flash and report were followearth. No lights were at first to be had and the dead and wounded lay together to escape. Many fled bleeding and bruised before they could be cared for. All the lights on the grounds were extinguished and increased darkness added to the panic. The fragments of the fire and mortar seemed to plow their way through the crowd to the outmost circle of onlookers. In a moment the picnic grounds were the scene of unlimited confusion. The merry making had been in progress all the evening and at the approach of darkness those present concentrated near the spot from which the display was to emanate. Some precaution had been taken to keep order among the onlookers and an effort was started to have all save those in charge removed from the stand where the unexploded fireworks were stacked. This was partly successful and those killed and injured were chiefly the persons in charge of the display.

rested at his home here early this morning upon a warrant issued by United States Commissioner John T. Davidson, upon complaint of ex-Congressman H. H. Rockwell, representing Jackson Robinson, president of the bank, and a number of depositors.

In his affidavit upon which the warrant was issued, Mr. Rockwell alleges that when the last quarterly report of the bank was made on May 4th, the bank overdraft was named at $18,612,53, when; in fact, Colonel Robinson's overdraft amounted to $48,000; that on or about May 25th, Mr. Bush gave to the head bookkeeper three notes amounting to $54,000, which Mr. Bush accepted to credit Mr. Robinson's account. It is charged that these notes were made in New York on May 6th, and were signed by unknown parties whose identity has never yet been established; that these notes were worthless and were thus credited to Colonel Robinson's account for the purpose of deceiving and defrauding the stockholders and depositors.

Mr. Bush was arraigned before United States Commissioner Davidson, pleaded not guilty to the charge and bail in the sum of $10,000 was given. The arrest was unexpected and has created the greatest sensation since the closing of the bank.

When the managers and crowd finally senses and the work of extricating the people from the wreck of the stand was begun, it was ascertained that no one had been killed, either in the collapse or subbeen killed, either in the collapse or sub-sequent stampede, although many were injured and some seriously so.

The Murder the Result of a Quarrel. Omaha, Neb., July 16.-Andrew Ryan is lying cold and stark at the morgue, the victim of one of the most cowardly murders ever committed. His slayer is George, alias "Bonsey" Williams, now in a cell of the city jail, racked by remorse at the thought of his deed. The murder was committed at an early hour this morning in front of a house of ill fame in the lower part of town. Ryan was literally cut to pieces by his assailant. Death was almost instantan-eous. Williams fled, but was captured. This afternoon when he sobered sufficiently to realize what he had done, the murlerer broke down and made a confession. He said he and Ryan had been rivals for the affections of one of the inmates of the dive kept by May Davis. Last night they were lodged there with a party of friends drinking. One of the party paid Nor a bottle of beer with a $5 bill, and when the change was returend, Williams and George Boyle quarrelled over the amount. Then Ryan took sides with Boyle, and Williams left the house. He hid at the side of the door and waited for Ryan to come out. When he appeared, the murderer pounced on him with a large clasp knife and before any one could interfore, he inflicted eight wounds, cutting Ryan's heart in two, cutting his throat and laying open his breast and obdomen. All the parties connected with the affair are switchmen employed by the Union Pacific and Burlington roads.

JOHN W. BURKE, JR., OF MACON, KILLED. He Was Struck While Dressing for Dinner

The Sad Ending of a Week of Pleasure for the Macon Volunteers. Cumberland Island, Ga., July 16 .- (Special.)—John W. Burke, Jr., corporal of the Macon Volunteers, and youngest son of Rev. J. W. Burke, of Macon, was struck by lightning at 1:30 o'clock today and instantly killed. He was standing in his tent dressing for a dinner that was to be given by the ladies at the hotel today complimentary to the Volunteers, when lightning struck the pole at the opening of the tent, tore off his shoes and threw him rolling out of the tent. His companions rushed to him at once but found his heart still in death. He was one of the brightest members of the Macon Volunteers, who have been in camp here for a week. He was a whole souled hanorable young man. His bright witticisms have been enjoyed by his large circle of friends here this week and he has been the life of the camp. His remains left here this afternoon on the boat and will reach Macon Monday morning escorted by the Volunteers. The ladies were to give the company a special dinner at the hotel today. The table had been decorated for the occasion, but the flowers were transferred to the body of the young soldier whose sad death is so deeply mourned by every one who knew him.

be amended to provide for notes being issued up to the par value of United States bonus, and another amendment would be wise, to provide for an issue of notes against the surplus capital of the national banks to the extent of 5 per cent thereof.

"These two changes in the law would make an increase in national currency amounting to about $150,000,000 and would provide the nation with enough money for its needs and it would be the best and most legitimate kind besides. The New York banks now have a surplus over capital of $70,000,000. The national banks of other cities have probably $100,000,000. This backing in cash or its equivalent to the notes Issued against the same would make them the strongest and most legitimate character of money could be devised. The surplus against which the issue of these notes would be made would be under the national bank examiners. The constant increase in the surplus of the banks would also give an elastic character to such money, which is a very desirable feature." The News in Macon. Macon, Ga., July 16 .- (Special.)-The startling information was received in Macon this evening by a telegram from Brunswick that John W. Burke, Jr., was instantly killed by lightning today on Cumberland Island.

He was a son and namesake of Rev. John W. Burke, of Macon, the well-known preacher and book dealer. The deceased was a corporal of the Macon Volunteers, and went with the company to Cumberland about ten days ago where they were encamped. He was about twenty-two years old, a fine specimen of manhood and a young man of fine character and splendid morals in every way. He had a bright and promising future and his untimely death is a great shock to relatives and friends.

Hall Were Very Poorly Aftended. appears, according to statements of Lord Chicago, July 16 .- Notwithstanding it was Lanadowne, that India suspended free coin advertised far and wide that the proceeds of today's ticket sales at the world's fair were to be donated to the families of the firemen who lost their lives last Monday, the attendance was small.

It was announced as "Heroes Day," and the total admissions of today against her to the today against her to the today against her age of silver at the time it did because the tone of the eastern press left no doubt upon his mind that the United States congress would, as soon as it assembled, repeal the Sherman purchasing act, and India found it necessary to be beforehand with the closing of her mints. This is an important addition to the history of the great financial controversy now convulsing the world.

the total admissions of today, according to the estimate of the bureau of admissions, will scarcely reach $35,000. At 3:30 o'clock this afternoon, but 20,000 people had passed the turnstiles. Even Midway plaisance had a deserted and somber, Sab-bath-like air. There was no music in any bath-like air. There was no music in any of the pavilions, and what was announced as the last open Sunday of the fair, in the eyes of the officials, at least, was a pronounced failure. The weather, though warm, was much more comfortable than it has been for the last three or four days. It rained slightly in the morning, and a refreshing breeze was blowing from the lake.

The memorial exercises in Festival hall were poorly attended. Less than a thousand people gathered there, and, had it not been that the hall was draped in mourning, the small audience would scarcely have known the exercises were in honor of the firemen who gave up their lives in the discharge of their duty. The Kev. Dr. Mercer preached the sermon. His text was "How readest thou?" He made no mention of the terrible disaster that attended the warchouse fire last Monday until near the close of his discourse. Then he spoke briefly of the admiration for men who sacrificed their lives in the discharge of duty. This admiration was called hero worship. No one could help admiring the bravery and heroism displayed at the fire of last Monday. Their names would go down in history.

For some reason, the work of clearing away the stinking rubbish and debris that remains in the ruins of the cold-storage warehouse was suspended today.

The paid admissions to the fair today were 42,491. It is estimated that the amount contributed to the relief fund by concessionaries from today's receipts will amount to $5,000, which, added to the proceeds from ticket sales, will swell the fund by about $30,000. The memorial exercises in Festival hall

New York, July 16.—A special from Ottawa, Ont., says: It was stated here yesterday that General Hebert, who was called to London by the British government ostensibly to arby the British government ostensibly to arrange for carrying out the proposed strengthening of the fortifications of British Columbia. will not return to Canada. General Hebert succeeded General Sir Frederick Middleton in the command of the Canadian militia, but his scheme for reorganizing the force somewhat on the lines of the regular British army was not approved by the Dominion government, as it involved a very large sum of money. He denounced the Canadian militia as worthless for defense, but after he left for England his recommendations were ignored.

THE INTERNATIONAL RAILWAY.

The Engineers and Surveyors Preparing Their Reports on the Routes Surveyed.

Washington, July 16.—The international railway commission, which was one of the outgrowths of the late pan-American congress, is now engaged in winding up the work it has been pursuing for the past two years, and the engineers and slurveyors who have been in the field are now prepar ing their reports and reducing their field notes to the shape of maps and charts.

The commission was appointed for the purpose of securing surveys of suitable lines for a railway system which should connect the northern and southern hemispheres with each other and form a continuous line of railroad from the United States through the American republics of the south. As in as in the case of the bueau of American republics, each country interested pays its share of the expense in proportion to population.

Congress last year failed to make any appropriation for the continuance of the work on the part of the United States, and it will require the greatest economy for the require the greatest economy for the com-mission, with the funds on hand, to be able to close up its work and print its reports which will then be opened for the use of capitalists who may seek to profit by these government surveys and build the railroads that are contemplated.

The field work was pursued by three parties, one in Central America and two in South America. That in Central America was under the direction of Lieutenant M. M. Macob, U. S. A., and surveyed a line from the southern boundary of Mexico through Constructed Story Selection. through Guatemala, San Salvador, Honduras, Nicaragua and Costa Rica to the Savagre river. This party has just returned to the United States, arriving July 8th, and is now at work upon the reduction of its field notes and the preparation of maps and charts. Corps number two, under the command of Mr. William F. Shunk, started in at Quito, Ecuador, and surveyed a line through the difficult Andean region as far as Cartagena, on the Caribbean sea; also a line from the Savagre river in Costa Rica through the isthuse to the nighboard. through the isthmus to the neighborhood of Antiouqua, in Colombia, where it connects with the other line from the isthmus to Cartagena. Mr. Shunk's party returned to the United States in June, and are also engaged in writing up their final report and areasting their sorrest.

gaged in writing up their final report and preparing their maps.

The remaining corps was under the direction of Mr. William D. Kelly, and surveyed a line from Quito, Ecuador, to Cuzco, Peru. The maps of this last party are nearly completed, and their reports covering their operations are now in preparation. Concerning the whole work, it may be said that the reports of the field engineers demonstrate the feasibility of building these railroads to connect the countries of North America with those off South America, and that there are no insurmountable en-America with those of South America, and that there are no insurmountable engineering difficulties in the way of successful prosecution of such work. The whole number of miles surveyed aggregated 4.50th. It is expected that the report will be made to congress some time this winter.

Introducing the speaker, Dr. Funk said:
"A man in the right can brave public opinion, but he must be right. In the case of our friend here, he is right."

When Dr. McGlynn spoke, he said it would be an affectation to say that he did not feel affected by the reception given him. He then announced that his subject would be, "Christ; why the poor hear him gladly," and preached a half hour sermon, never once referring to his trouble, nor his restoration to the priesthood. his restoration to the priesthood.

MAYOR HORNE.

A Great Many Macon People Like the Combination.

WHAT ABOUT THE PRESENT MAYOR P

Will He Be Postmaster?- He Has Very Strong Backing-Members of the Week-

Macon, Ga., July 16.—(Special.)—Many believe that Mr. Henry Horne will be a candidate for mayor of Macon at the next election. It is known that some of Mr. Horne's friends have been "sounding" around to see how the public pulse beats on the subject of his candidacy. Mr. orne would make a live and progressive mayor, and under his administration the city would continue to increase in material city would continue to increase in material growth and population and prosperity. Mr. Horne has sold his large real estate renting business, and some think this was done in order that he might have more freedom in making his mayoralty canvass and discharging the duties of the office if elected. Mr. Horne was an alderman several terms and became conversant with city affairs. He has never been closely identified with either the administration or anti-administration element, but has held anti-administration element, but has held a conservative course. There are quite a number of other gentlemen mentioned for mayor, whose names have already been published in The Constitution.

How About Price ? Owing to the present law Mayor S. B. Price is ineligible to re-election, and it is generally known that he is a candidate for postmaster at Macon, the term of which begins in February, 1894, and the term of the mayoralty now held by him expires next December, so there will be a very short interval between the two terms. Nothing is certain in politics, and Daisy Price may or may not be postmaster. It is believed that his strongest opponent is Mr. Owing to the present law Mayor S. B. Price may or may not be postmaster. It is believed that his strongest opponent is Mr. Dick Findlay, who has been in the office several years, gradually ascending from place to place, until he is now superin-tendent of carriers and general delivery. Both Price and Findlay are strongly en-

But the present law making Price ineligible to re-election as mayor, may be repealed by the passage by the legislature of a new charter for Macon. Under the present law the mayor's term is three years. Under the proposed new charter the term is made for two years. Of course if the charter passes the legislature the present law governing the mayorality will be repealed and Price will be eligible for re-election. He may desire, in this event, to be mayor again instead of being postmaster. The present salary of the mayor is $2.800 per anaum and the postoffice pays $3,100. There is more influence and power connected with the mayoralty than the postmaster. It is true that the term of the postmaster is four years, and that of the mayor, under the proposed new charter would be only two years. Daisy may be able to find "something better." In forecasting the mayoralty heroscope it may not be best to leave Price out of consideration altogether.

When her son, Frank, arrived home he was told what had occurred and he gave an alarm, and soon a band of determined mea, well armed, were scouring the country for the fiend. While the editors of the weekly press were "excurring," they were taken in charge by Colonel W. L. They were also taken to the celebrated farm at Cycloneta. The editors were greatly pleased with all they saw.

Captain Owen T. Kenan, of the Macon Hussars, will return tomorrow to the state military encampment at Griffin, where he holds the important position of instructor of guard duty. Captain Kenan has been at the encampment the past ten days, and only came to Macon to spend a day or two. He is greatly pleased with the work accomplished at the camp so far, and says it will be of inestimable benefit to the solders. He thinks the legislature would be more liberal in appropriations to the state military, and would adopt a broader policy to the volunteer forces of Georgia, if it could only attend one of the encampments. Captain Kenan is an admirable military man, and is specially fitted for the office of inspector of guard duty. Instructor of Guard Duty.

Editors in Macon.

Last evening quite a number of editors of the Weekly Press Association, were in Macon, en route to their respective homes, from Brunswick, where the annual session was held, and from a delightful excursion through Florida and along the Georgia Soutnern road. The editors in Macon last night were headed by that veteran journalist and most estimable gentleman, Roberts, of The Sparta Ishmaelite. Two other congenial spirits and popular members of the fourth estate, were W. S. Coleman, of The Cedartown Standard, and Horace M. Ellington, of The Ellipsy Courier. A group of about twenty of the, editors were sitting in front of the Hotel Lanier last evening chatting and enjoying the cool breezes. In the center of the charmed circle was that handsome and courtly gentleman, Colonel ary, of Augusta, the able and popular United States district attorney. Suddenly the affable Augustan and semi-Maconite said: "Gentlemen, I never saw as many fine looking and agreeable editors together at one time in my life. It's my treat. Let's have something." The county commissioners will have a meeting next Tuesday, and it is probable that they will decide when to hold the election on the question of issuing bonds sioners are in favor of not calling the election until next October. They think the entire county will then be in much better financial condition than it is now, and the people will be in better humor generally. The election, though, may be called earlier but present indications point to October as the time.

A Bank Burglar.

Last night Officer Hulsley arrested a negro named Wesley Taylor as he was in the act of entering the Merchants' bank on Second street. He had raised one of the windows. When arrested he had with him a cold chisel belonging to the Georgia Southern road, and other tools. No doubt, Southern road, and other tools. No doubt, he intended to try and rob the vault and safe of the bank.

MELONS IN MONTEZUMA.

A Rapid Decline in Prices and the Business

Is Dull Montezuma, Ga., July 16.—(Special.)—Up to date, ninety-four cars of melons have been shipped from this place. When the season first opened the market was very good, and nice prices could be obtained on good, and nice prices could be obtained on the track from the representatives of the different commission houses who have rep-resentatives here; but, as the season ad-vanced, the market was overstocked. resentatives here; but, as the season advanced, the market was overstocked, and there was a rapid decline in prices. No old whatever can be obtained from the local bid whatever can be obtained from the local representatives, and the railroads require the freight to be paid in advance, and the melons shipped at the owner's risk. The growers are disheartened at the turn of affairs, and many of them say they are sorry they planted at all, as the money they received for the first few cars will be lost in the failure to receive satisfactory returns for later shipments. The cause of the decline of the melon market is attributed to the stringency of money matters in the northern markets, but it is thought to be the rascality of dishonest commission men that cause the greatest losses. The fruit growers should combine and send a man to the different markets, and consign trains on the East Tennessee railroad and made a search of all the cars for the negro, but without success. The negro is known, and Ray and some of his friends came to Macon today, hoping to find him here. They say if he is found he will be given a speedy death. The negro came from Hawkinsville, a few days, to attend the fineral of his mother in Twiggs county. Beyond the great fright he gave Mrs. Ray, the suffered no bodily harm.

THE PEABODY INSTITUTE.

End of the First Week's Work-The Outlook is Most Encouraging.

Mariotta, Ga., July 16.—(Special.)—The Peabody Normal institute is in full blast here, and the interest in it has increased daily. The first week's work has just come to a close, and the enthusiasm and love for the work is felt by all.

The institution had its origin in this way: A magnificent donation, called the Peabody fund, was given by Mr.Peabody for educational purposes, and from this $2,000 was appropriated to pay the expenses of experts to lecture to the teachers of the day schools of this county and neighboring counties at this time.

The sessions are held daily, and the number of teachers in actual attendance is large. The lecturers are unusually good and practical, and the amount of good done in teaching new and improved methods of imparting knowledge is simply beyond estimate.

Governor Northen honored the institute with a visit Wednesday, and made an address before a large audience in the courthouse. He has been a teacher himself, and is in full sympathy with the work. The institute will continue next week, and the attendance bids fair to be large and the programme even more interesting than that of this week.

" HE MARRIED HIS NIECE,

And Now the Girl's Parents Are Heart"

Greenville, Ga., July 16.—(Special.)—By false representations recently a citizen of this county procured license to marry his niece, and the ceremony was performed. He represented the girl as nineteen years old, whereas she was but thirteen. He stated she was his second cousin, when she was really his niece. He informed the ordinary that the parents of the girl were willing to the marriage, when, in truth, they knew nothing of it. The parents are heartbroken over the sad affair. The marriage is null and void, and the unfortunate girl has been taken in charge by her parents.

Stole the Foreman's Watch.

Greenville, Ga., July 16.—(Special.)—A colored gamin, whose identity to the foreman of The Vindicator was unknown, came into the printing office and asked for some old papers. While gathering up papers, the boy managed to snatch the foreman's watch from the pocket of the vest hanging on a nail driven in the wall. Something in the little Ethiop's manner caused Mr. Thompson to glance up at his vest, and, seeing his watch missing, he made for the boy, who was going out at the front door. Seizing the rogue by the back of the neck, he demanded the watch. The culprit deniel having it. Running his hand in the struggling rascal's pocket, the watch was drawn forth. The attempt was a bold one, and came near being successful.

ASSAULT WITH ROCKS

That Is the Charge Made Against Mrs. White and Mrs. Bowen.

SOME EXCITEMENT OVER A MINISTER.

Who Was Supposed to Have Been Lost Searching Parties Out for Him.

Carrollton, Ga., July 16.—(Special.)— The Benford-White feud, of which there has been so much written of late, has broken out in a fresh spot and is likely to add several more cases in court.

Sheriff Jim Hewitt and Deputy Sheriff Ed Hewitt went down into New Mexico district yesterday and arrested the widow, Mary E. White, and Mrs. Sarah J. Bowen Mrs. White on a warrant sworn out by Mrs. Henry Benford, for a deadly assault on the person of Mrs. Benford with rocks. The readers of The Constitution have read The readers of The Constitution have read much of a certain fifty-acre tract of land over which Mary E. White and Mr. J. H. L. Benford have been disputing for several months. This dispute still continues, and both the widow White and the Benfords claim the possession of this tract of land. It seems that Mrs. Henry Benford, a daughter-in-law of J. H. L. Benford, was in the peach orchard, a few days since, gathering some fruit. Mrs. Mary E. White and Mrs. S. J. Bowen attacked her with rocks, and the assault came near being serious. Mrs. Benford swore out warrants for the White and Bowen women, and each has been ar rested and put under bond. A preliminary trial of the women will occur at Bowdon tomorrow, and a lively case is expected to develop.

The feud about this fifty-acre tract of land began last January. It seems that John White, the now separated husband of Mary White, made a deed to J. H. L. Benford for the loan of $100, and when the loan was due Mr. Benford demanded possession of the land of Mrs. White, the old man, John White, having removed to Haralson county, and had previously acknowledged Benford's right to the property. ty. Mrs. White demurreu to the action of her husband and still remained on the property, and refused to give it to Benford when he demanded it. A dispute arose between the woman and Mr. Benford, and Mrs. White had Mr. Benford arrested on a peace warrant. This is probably the first time on record where a woman served a peace warrant on a man. A few days later the Benfords were accused of going to Mrs. White's one night and throwing all her household goods out into the yard and also ejecting her from the premises. Some of the Benfords stand indicted for this and for an attempted arson on this house. Mrs. White was determined not to be downed in any such way, and she immediately burst open the doors and moved back into the house. Mrs. White has been ejected on several occasions from these premises, and Henry Benford, a son of J. H. L. Benford, is now in possession. It is about the same fifty acres of land that thirteen men are serving out a term in the Fulton county chaingang for whitecapism. In all over two hundred different cases, both eivil and criminal, have grown out of this same notable tract of land.

It was about the right to the fruit of the orchard on this same land that Mrs. White and Mrs. Bowen were arrested yesterday for pelting Mrs. Henry Benford with stones.

He Got Off at the Wrong Station. Much excitement was created here last night when the report became current that Rev. A. C. Professor Reese, who is the tather of Hon. Oscar Reese of this city, and father-in-law of Judge W. C. Adanson, also of this place, went to Newman yesterday to have his brother, Dr. J. F. Reese, of that city, treat him for a sore on his face. Professor Reese boarded the north-bond "Bell" at Newnan last night at 9 o'clock on his return home. On the same train was Judge Adamson, Professor Reese's son-in-law, and several other Carrollton gentlemen. At Clem, a station six miles south of Carrollton, Professor Reese was missed from the train and a thorough miles south of Carrollon, Professor Reese was missed from the train and a thorough search disclosed the fact that he was not on the train, and the general theory was that he had been knocked from the train and probably killed. When the train reached Carrollton at 11 o'clock a big searching party was organized and a thorough search of the road was made from Clem to Whitesburg. There were probably fifty people in all engaged in the search and excitement ran high. Mrs. Reese, who was at the old Reese homestead in the heart of Carrollton, was not apprised of the fact that her aged husband was missing, the crowd fearing the result of breaking such startling news to her. At daybreak this morning several of the searching party returned to Carrollton to organize a new searching party for the day. It was ascertained that, two men saw a gentleman get off the train at Clem and squads were scouring the woods in the vicinity. Professor Reese has been quite feeble of late and it was thought that he could not walk any distance. The anxiety and excitement were all shut off about sunup, when a party went to Professor Reese.

The anxiety and excitement were all shut off about sunup, when a party went to Professor Reese's home to acquaint his wife of his sudden departure from the train and found the professor at home in his bed asleep. It seems that he had mistaken Clem for Carrollton and he had gotten off the train. When he discovered his mistake, he took the railroad track and walked to Carrollton, six miles, in four hours and a half. He arrived almost exhausted. The searching party all returned about noon today, having learned of the venerable gentleman's whereabouts. Professor Reese has been a teacher and a preacher here for twenty-five years, and is well known, and the news of his mysterious disappearance created great auxiety.

Gentry Made Bond.

George Gentry, who stands convicted in Carroll superior court of horse stealing, and is under sentence of five years in the chaingang, has made bond. George is a brother of the noted Asbury Gentry, and he was stricken with fever a few days since, and his doctor said that he must be taken from jail or he could not live. So George made bond. But it seemed for a time that he would have to go back to jail, or be carried to Alabama and jailed for crimes alleged to have been committed in that state. It will be remembered that just after it was said George stole Mr. Rhody's horse and Asbury killed the foot peddier, it was reported that they stole four horses, one buggy, $200 in money and other things near Anniston and Piedmont, Ala. George is out on a thousand dollar bond. Gentry Made Bond.

The Bond Election in Carroll. The Bond Election in Carroll.

The voters of Carroll county voted on the question of issuing $20,000 worth of bonds yesterday to finish paying for this new courthouse. About 2,000 votes were cast and about two one against bonds. So the people will have to plank down the cold cash to pay for the new courthouse. This will make county matters in Carroll a little tight for a few years, at least, as the county scrip is already being sold at a discount. The third party element voted almost solidly against bonds.

The Judge Has to Interfere-A Funny Se

Dawson, Ga., July 16.-(Special.)-A novel and remarkable scene was witness ed this morning in Justice J. W. Peddy's court. A negro charged with demeanor in a warrant issued by a mag istrate out in the country was brough before Justice Peddy for preliminary trial. Colonel J. A. Laing, acting county solicitor, represented the prosecution and Col-onel B. F. Christie appeared as counsel for the prisoner. The warrant was de-fective, and on objection being raised to it by defendant's lawye the prosecuting attorney proposed to dismiss that warrant and have a new and proper one issued. As soon as the court signed the order dismissing the warrant, and before a new one could be issued, Colonel Christie told his could be issued, Colonel Christie told his client to go home, and insisted that the defendant could not be held without a warrant. Colonel Laing contended that the sheriff should have the accused till a new warrant could be had, and then the fun took place. Colonel Christie urged his client to leave the courtroom, and he emphasized his advice by taking hold of him and pushing him towards the door. The sheriff and a constable opposed this exit and the defendant was halting between two opinions and two opposite forces. The spectators looked on in wonder and amusement, and the curtain was at length rang down on this exciting scene by the court ment, and the curtain was at length rang down on this exciting, scene by the court directing the accused to remain and instructing the sheriff to hold him. A new warrant was quickly obtained, and the trial proceeded at once. The funny part of it all was that the evidence failed to sustain the charge, and the prisoner was acquitted, notwithstanding the efforts of counsel to have him leave the court without a trial. It is due to Colonel Christic to say that he did not think his client could be legally detained without a warrant and he always stands up to his clients.

Comptroller Eckels refused to let the stockholders examine the assets with a view to finding the condition of the bank and putting it on a good basis again. We only obtained permission two days ago to examine the assets of the bank, and I will go down to Brunswick tomorrow might for that purpose. It will be tested in the courts as to whether Mr. Eckels has the right to levy an assessment of $75 per share before ascertaling whether it was necessary in order to make up the deficit, and also whether he should appoint a receiver not acceptable to the steckholders for the purpose of paying a political debt. It will be dangerous for beople to hold stock in national banks if they are to be made political machines. If the bank's assets are found in condition to allow it, the stockholders will endeavor to take up the bank and reorganize it properly." and reorganize it properly."

SCALPING THE SCALPERS.

The Railway Companies of Misnesota After the Ticket Scalpers.

St. Paul, Minn., July 16.—The Minnesota ticket brokers and Minnesota railway companies have buckled on their armor for a fight to the death. The new anti-scalpers law passed on April 19th goes into effect this week, and is very stringent. It makes it a state offense for any man to sell, barter or transfer railroad tickets or other evidences of the holder's right to travel, except he be provided with a license from the railroad or steamship company over whose lines said ticket is good, or with a license obtained from the secretary of state within ten days after the issuance of a license obtained from the secretary of state within ten days after the issuance of the company's certificate. Every agent of every ra lroad company represented in this state must be provided with a certificate or authority by his company next Wednesday morning, and, also, with a state certificate on or before Saturday, July 29th, or be liable to a violation of the above law as a scalary.

Nearly all the railroads having ticket agents in Minasota have already provided them with certificates, and when the day's grace has expired there is no doubt but that every agent will have a state certificate snugly in his possession.

Should any line be delinquent in this matter there will be some interesting complications in the prosecution of a scalper, who can, if convicted, immediately afrest the agent of such lines, and, with the American Association of Ticket Brokers at his back, put him through the very mill

American Association of Ticket Brokers at his back, put him through the very mill which the railways have decidated to the occupation of "scalpers only." All scalpers have decided to ignore the law. A test case will be made, as a result, and sent to the supreme court, which will pass upon the law's constitutionality.

THE BAPTIST YOUNG PEOPLE

Pass Resolutions Endersing the Sunday Closing of the World's Fair.

Indampolis, Ind., Inly 16.—The convention of the Baptist Young People's Union finished its labors and adjourned tonight, a large number of the delegates leaving Chicago at midnight on a special train.

This morning they scattered out to the various churches, most of the city pulpits being filled by distinguished visiting Baptists. In the afternoon a praise service of song and general meetings were held at Tomlin's hall. This evening, at the last session, President Chapman delivered an address in which he urged close study of the Bible and defended the idea of a pure denominational society such as the union is. Among the resolutions adopted was this, which was adopted with cheers by a rising vote:

Resolved, That the twenty-four thousand saloons in the nation, which employ more than a willing of men and waste more then a bile.

by a rising vote:

Resolved, That the twenty-four thousand saloons in the nation, which employ more than a million of men and waste more than a billion of men and waste more than a billion of money every year, together with the breweries and distilleries, all of which compactly organized, are an aggregation of the most stupendous enemies to civil and religious liberty, the Christain Sabbath and our republican institutions.

It essolved, That we believe in the abolition of the liquor traffic in the state and nation, and pledge ourselves to wage against it a traceless war until the whole business, root and branch, is entirely annihilated.

Another favored the autonomy of the southern Baptist convention. On Sunday closing this resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That, with profound gratitude to Almighity God, we recognize His ever ruling hand in the final closing of the gates of the world's fair on Sunday. The attempt of men, to make gain by disregard of law, by trampling upon interests long held sacred on this continent, has been met by the strong and persistent protest of American conscience. The officials of the exposition gave the public the privilege of secularizing the Lord's Sanday. That privilege, the people, each of his own free will, have scorned, and we hall the result as a declaration, before the nations of the earth, of the unfaltering purpose of the American people to preserve in its integrity the American Sunday.

BRIDGE BURNER

Does Some of His Dastardly Work Near Thomasville.

TWO TRESTLES FIRED BY THE FIEND.

The Third Attempt to Wreck Trans on the Savannah, Florida and Western Is Very Near Success ul.

Thomasville, Ga., July 16 .- (Special.)-For the past week the Savannah, Florida and Western railway authorities have been annoyed considerably by the attempts of a fiendish scoundrel to wreck the trains. Three unsuccessful attempts were made last week to throw the night passenger train for Savannah from the track by placing crossties on end between timbe two different trestles.

two different trestles.

This plan failing to accomplish the destruction desired, the would-be wreckers changed their tactics and last night the torch was applied to two trestles between this place and Boston, the first station from here. The former attempts were made at points within the city limits and the railroad people thinking that if other attempts were made they would be confined to the same locality, had watchmen placed along the line of road adjacent to these places. These two trestles that were burned last night were within a half mile of each other between eight and nine miles from here. One of them was a small one, but the other was over Ancilla creek and quite long and high. About two car lengths of the latter were totally destroyed and it will be late tomorrow before trains can pass. Train No. 5 came very near going anto it this morning at 6 o'clock. It was coming in this direction and struck the small bridge first. This was burning but the train passed over safely. This put the engineer on his guard and he was running engineer on his guard and he was running very slowly when the second burning bridge came in sight and had no difficulty in stopping his train. The mail and passengers were transferred today and will likely have to be toworrow, atthough some 200 men are at work rebuilding the burned bridges. Detectives are at work on the case and it is not unlikely that who ever did the deed will be caught. The railway people are very more than the caught. way people are very much wrought up over these attempts to kill them and if the proper person is caught, there will probably be a lynching.

Lives Are Now in Danger.

Savannah, Ga., July 16.—(Special.)—Joe Murray and Elijah Keepler got into a quarrel over a game of skin out on the Springfield road this afternoon at 4 o'clock and both drew pistols and shots were figed.

Keepler was shot in the nips. Murray then ran behind a tree and Keepler jumped over a fence. Seeing his antagonist behind a tree Keepler returned to renew the attack. He went up to the tree, pistol in hand, remarking that he was going to get one or more at Murray, and Murray kept dodging behind the tree to prevent being shot. Finally Murray turned to run, and as he did so Keeper shot him through the back the ball coming out through his stomach.

Murray will die and Keepler's life is uncertain.

Savannah, Ga., July 14.—(Special.)—A. It. Gonzales, of Ponpon, S. C., brother of Editor Gonzales, of The Columbia State, while sleeping in a third-story room at the Tybee hotel last night, walked out of the window and fell forty free to a plank walk. He was picked up at 1:35 o'clock this morning, five minutes after he had fallen, perfectly conactous. Not a bone in his body was broken and he was only badly bruised. He could not walk, however, and was brought into the city and taken to St. Joseph's infirmary, where he is doing well. The doctors say he was not injured internally and that he will be about in a few days. He says he is a somnambulist and is accustomed to walking in his sleep.

Carnesville, Ga., July 16.—(Special.)—The county alliance met here last week about one hundred and lifty strong, ostensibly for the purpose of bolstering up the hopes of the third party. The meeting was void of enthusiasm and clearly showed that the back of the party of great expectations is broke in this county.

prayer. The schools such men have es-tablished, the churches they have built, the asylums and beneficent institutions they have fostered, will be their eulogy long after banking institutions are forgotten. Such men can never fail. They have their treasures in banks that never break, and will be millionaires forever. The stringency of the money market, I am glad to say, begins to relax. May the wisdom of Almighty God come down upon our national legislature at their convening next month in Washington, and such results be reached as shall restore confidence and revive trade, and multiply prosperities Yet, not only now in the time of financial disaster, but all through life our active business people have a struggle, and I think it will be appropriate and useful to me to talk about their trials and try to offer some curative prescriptions.

In the first place, I have to remark that a great many of our business men feel a great many of our business men feel ruinous trials and temptatiens coming to them from small and limited capital in business. It is everywhere understood that it takes now three or four times as much to do business well, as once it did. Once, a few hundred dollars were turned into goods—the merchant would be his own store sweeper, his own salesman, his own bookkeeper; he would manage all the affairs himself, and everything would be net profit. Wonderful changes have come; costly apparatus, extensive advertising, other bundle of goods and says to the ensure profit. Wonderful changes have come; costly apparatus, extensive advertising, expensive agencies, are only parts of the demand made upon our commercial mentand when they have found themselves in such circumstances twith small capital, they have sometimes been tempted to run against the rocks of moral and financial destruction. This temptation of limited capital has ruined men in two ways. Sometimes they have shrunk down under the temptation. They have yielded the battle before the first shot was fired. At the first hard gun they surrendered. Their knees knocked together at the fall of the autotioneer's hammer. They blanched at the financial perli. They did not understand that there is such a thing as heroid in merchandise, and that there are Waterloos of the counter, and that a woord than he can write the yardstate with the sword than he can write they are not suggested. They do not understand that they wanted to buy, and down when they wanted to sell, and unsaleable goods were on the shelf, and band debts in their ledger. The gloom of their countenances overshadowed even their dry goods and groceries. Despondency, coming from limited capital, blasted them. Others have fell it in a different way. They have said: "Here I have been trudging along. I have been trying to be honest all these years. I find it is of no use. Now it is make or break."

The small craft that could have stood the stream, is put out beyond the lighthouse, or the speed from every direction. There it is all on paper! The city has never been built, nor the railroads constructed, but everything points that way, and the thing will be done as sure as you live. And that is the process by which many have been tempted, through limits from the arrived. is the process by which many have been tempted, through limitation of capital, into labyrinths from which they could not be extricated. I would not want to chain honest enterprise. I would not want to block up any of the avenues for honest accumulation that open before young men. On the contrary, I would like to cheer them on and rejoice when they reach the goal; but when there are such multitudes of men going to ruin for this life and the life that is to come, through wrong notions of what are lawful spheres of enterprise, it is the duty of the ministers of religion, and the friends of all young men, to utter a plain, emphatic, unmistakable protest. These are the influences that drown men in destruction, and nordition a plain, emphatic, unmistakable protest. These are the influences that drown men in destruction and perdition.

Again, a great many of our business men are tempted by over-anxiety and care. You know that nearly all commercial businesses are overdone in this day. Smitten with the love of quick gain, our cities are crowded with men resolved to be rich at all hazards. They do not care how many comes. Car best merchants are thrown into competition with men of more means and less conscience, and if an opportunity of accumulation be neglected one hour, some one else picks it up. From January to December the struggle goes on. Night gives no quiet to limbs tossing in restlessness, nor to a brain that will not stop thinking. The dreams are harrowed by imaginary loss, and flushed with imaginary gains. Even the Sabbath cannot dam back the tide of anxiety; for this wave of world-liness dashes clear over the churches, and leaves its foam on Bibles and prayer-books.

Men who are living on salaries, or by the culture of the soil, cannot understand the wear and tear of the body and mind to which our merchants are subjected, when they do not know but that their livelihood which our merchants are subjected, when they do not know but that their livelihood and their business honor are dependent upon the uncertainties of the next hour. This ex-ctement of the brain, this corroding care of the heart, this strain of effort that ex-hausts the spirit, sends a great many of

DR. TALMAGE EXTENDS HIS SYMPATHIES

He Hopes the Extra Session of Congress Will Make Matters Essy—Business Men Worry Too Much.

Brooklyn, July 16.—Special.)—Rev. Dr. Talmage selected as his subject for today, a topic of the greatest interest and timeliness, viz.: "Comfort for Business Men," the text being Isaiah xl. 2: "Speak ye comfortably to Jerusalem."

What an awful six weeks in commercial circles. The crashing of banks from San Francisco to New York, and from occan to ocean. The complete uncertainty that has halted all styles of business for three months, and the pressure of the money market for the past year have put all bargain makers at their wit's-end. Some of the best men in the land have faltered; men whose hearts are enlisted in every good work; and whose hands have blessed every great charity. The church' of God can afford to extend to them her sympathies, and plead before heaven with all availing grayer. The schools such men have established, the churches they have built, the asylums and beneficent institutions they have fostered, will be their eulogy love a first benefits.

Again I remark, that many of our business men are tempted to neglect their home duties. How often it is that the store and the home seem to clash, but there ought not to be any collision. It is often the case that the father is the mere treasurer of the family, a sort of agent to see that they have dry goods and groceries. The work of family government he does not touch. Once or twice in a year he calls the children up on a Sabbath afterneon when he has a half hour he does not exactly know what to do with, and in that half heur he disciplines the children, and chides them and corrects their faults, and chides them and corrects their faults can be supported their faults, and gives them a great deal of good advice, and then wonders all the rest of the wear that his children do not do better, when they have the wonderful advantage of that semi-annual castigation. The family table, which ought to be the place for pleasant discussion and cheerfulness, often becomes the place of regulary expedition. becomes the place of perilous expedition. If there be any blessing asked at all, it is cut off at both ends, and with the hand on the carving knife he counts on his fingers, making estimates in the interstices of the repast. The work done, the hat goes to the head, and he starts down the street, and before the family has risen from the table he has begund up or en from the table, he has bound up another bundle of goods and says to the customer: "Anything more I can do fer you today, sir?" A man has more responsitomer: "Anything more I can do for you today, sir?" A man has more responsibilities than those which are discharged by putting competent instructors over his children and giving them a drawing master and music teacher. The physical culture of the child will not be attended to unless the father looks to it. He must sometimes lose his dignity. He must unlimber his joints. He must sometimes lose his dignity. He must unlimber his joints. He must sometimes lead them out to their sports and games. The parent who cannot forget the severe duties of life sometimes, to fly the kite, and trouble the hoop, and chase the ball, and jump the rope with his children ought never to have been tempted out of a crusty and unredeemable solitariness. If you want to keep your children away from places of sin, you can only, do it by making your

Again, I remark that a great many of our business men are tempted to put the attainment of money above the value of the squl. It is a grand thing to have plenty of money. The more you get of it, the better, if it comes honestly and Zoes usefully. For the lack of it, sickness dies without medicine, and hunger finds its coffin in the empty bread tray, and nakedness shivers for lack of clothes and fire. When I hear a man in canting tirade against money—a Christian man—as though it had no possible use on earth and he had no interest in it, I come almost to think that the heaven that would be appropriate for him, would be an everlasting poorhouse! that the neaven that would be appropriate for him, would be an everlasting poorhouse! While, my friends, we do admit there is such a thing as a lawful use of money—a profitable use of money—let us recognize also the fact, that money cannot satisfy a man's soul, that it cannot glitter is the dealy really a that it cannot pay our

a profitable use of money—let us recognize also the fact., that money cannot satisfy a man's soul, that it cannot glitter in the dark valley, that it cannot pay our fare across the Jordan of death, that it cannot unlock the gate of heaven. There are men in all occupations who seem to act as though they thought a pack of bonds and mortgages could be traded off for a title to heaven, and as though gold would be a lawful tender in that place where it is so common that they make pavements out of it. Salvation by Christ is the only salvation. Treasures in heaven are the only incorruptible treasures. Have you ever ciphered out in the rule of loss and gain the sum: "What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his soul?" However fine your apparel, the winds of death will flutter it like rags. Homespun and a threadbare coat have sometimes been the shadow of coming robes made white in the blood of the Lamb. The pearl of great price is worth more than any gem you can bring from the ocean, than Australian or Brazilian mines strung in one carcanet. Seek after God; find His righteousness, and all shall be well here; all shall be well hereafter.

But I must have a word with those who during the present commercial calamities have lost heavily, or perhaps lost all their estate. If a man lose his property at thirty or forty years of age, it is only a sharp discipline generally, by which later he comes to larger success. It is folly for a man to sit down in mid life discouraged. The marshals of Napoleon came to their commander and said: "We have lost the battle, and we are being cut to pieces." Napoleon took his watch from his pocket, and said: "It is only 2 o'clock in the afternoon. You have lost that battle, but we have time enough to win another. Charge upon the foe!" Though the meridian of life has passed with you, and you have been routed in many a conflict, give nor up in discouragement. There are victories yet for you to gain. But sometimes monetary disaster comes to a man when there is something in his heaven! You have more than you have lost. Sons and daughters of God, children of an eternal and all-loving Father, mourn not when your property goes. The world is yours, and life is yours, and death is yours, and immortality is yours, and thrones of imperial grandeur are yours, and rivers of gladness are yours, and God is yours. The eternal God has sworn it, and every time you doubt it, you charge the King of heaven and earth with perjury. Instead of complaining how hard you have it, go home, take up the Bible full of promises, get down on your knees before God and thank Him for what you have, instead of spending so much time in complaining about what you have not.

Some of you remember the shipwreck of the Control Parents of God and the Some of You remember the shipwreck.

have, instead of spending so much time in complaining about what you have not. Some of you remember the shipwreck of the Central America. This noble steamer, had, I think, about five hundred passengers aboard. Suddenly the storm came, and the surges trampied the decks and swung into the hatches, and there went up a hundered-voiced death shrick. The foam on the jaw of the wave. The pitching of the steamer as though it were leaping a mountain. The dismal flare of the signal rockets. The long cough of the steam pipes. The hiss of the extinguished furnaces. The walking of God on the wave! The steamer went not down without a struggle. As the passengers stationed themselves in rows, to bale out the vessel, hark to the thump of the buckets, as men unused to toil, with blistered hands and strained muscle, tug for their lives. There is a sail seen against the sky. The flash of the distress gun sounded, its voice is heard not, for it is choked in the louder booming of the sea. A few passengers escaped, but the steamer gave one lurch and was gone! So there are some men who sail on prosperously in life. All's well, all's well. But at last some financial disaster comes; a euroclydon. Down they go! the bottom of this commercial sea strewn with shattered hulks. But because your property goes, do not let cial sea strewn with shattered hulks. But can see strewn with snattered nulks. But because your property goes, do not let your soul go. Though all else perish, save that; for I have to tell you a more stupendous shipwreck than that which I have just mentioned. God launched the world just mentioned. God launched the world six thousand years ago. It has been going on under freight of mountains and immortals; but one day it will stagger at the cry of fire. The timbers of rock will burn, the mountains flame like masts, and the clouds like sails in the judgment hurricau. Then God shall take the passengers off the deck, and from the berths those who have long been asleep in Jesus, and he will set them far beyond the reach of storm and peril. But how many shall go down: that will never be known, until it shall be announced one day in heaven; the shipwreck of the world! Oh! my dear hearers, whatever you lose, though your houses go, though your houses go, though your lands go, though all your earthly possessions perish, may God Almighty, through the blood of the everlasting Covenant, save your souls.

"THE RIMETALLIC THEORY"

"THE BIMETALLIC THEORY."

The Lenders Are Prepared to Ruin the Country.

The New York Nation. 1. The theory of bimetallic money has certain attractions for professional economists, and it has been maintained by men familiar with business. Stated briefly, the chief advantage that its advocates dwell upon is the supposed stability of value resulting from the employment of the accumulated stock of both gold and silver as money. This vast reser-voir, it is thought, cannot fluctuate violently under such relatively small additions as are ande to it from the production of the mines; while if gold alone is employed as the standard, the ratio between the existing fund and the annual increment would be far greater, and the fluctuations of value therefore more extreme. On the other hand, it is objected that, while this might be true in theory if the metals were of unchangeable value relatively to each other, yet as the ratio between them constantly varies, the comparison should be not of one reservoir, but of two, and that consequently values in general are less stable, having to adjust themselves first to one standard and then to another.

2. The reply of the bimetallists to this objection—and it is the only reply they can possibly make—is that the decree of the sort-possibly make—is that the decree of the sovereign power can overcome the inequality of values. A silver dollar may be worth less than a gold dollar, but, they say, the flat of the government that it shall be worth as much will make it practically worth as much. The really scientific bimetallists do not presi this argument to an extreme. They disposed to admit that a "readjustment" values may be from time to time necessary, and consider that this can be done by govern-mental authority. Thus one distinguished bimetallist compared bimetallic money to a pair of horses harnessed together. One horse might be stronger or faster than the other, he said, but the driver, by checking one and urging the other, could make them pull even-ly and keep abreast of each other. But this comparison, of course, implies that there is no very great disparity between the horses.

If there is, it is plain that the strain upon the deliver becomes painfully severe.

3. Now, it is exactly this function of the driver that has been tested by our recent experience. The driver in this case consists of a president and two legislative bodies, containing some five hundred men. This composite driver took the relfs of the financial charlot with the expressed purpose of maintaining "parity" between the two steeds, gold taining "parity" between the two steeds, god and silver. The silver steed, showing a dis-position to lag, was stimulated by large pur-chases and by most cheering and sympathet-ic words, while the gold steed was sternly repressed. But the result is that the gold steed has had to do all the work, silver is practically run down and under the wheels, the driver is confused and frightened, the passengers are all trying to climb out of the wagon, and the spectators are either laughing at the amazing exhibition of incompetence or in terror at the prospect of a ruinous overin terror at the prospect of a rulnous over-throw.

4. We do not see how the bimetallic theo-rists can deny that this experiment demonrists can deny that this experiment demonstrates the practical worthlessness of their theory. If government can make values, their theory may answer; but whenever government tries to do this it fails. It is not competent to exercise this function. No body of men is competent. Onnipotence alone can do that. A government is a human creation and efficient only as it adapts itself to the nature of its creator. Values are simply the embodiment of human jucquents as to the relative desirability of things, and all that government can do is to register. and all that government can do is to register these judgements and carry them out as well as possible. Just so soon as men find out that government is attempting to do one that government is attempting to do more than this by ordaining that what men have valued less they shall value more, the authority of government is brought into disrepute. It may command obedience for availle, and try to command it longer by word legislation, but it is beautiful. penal legislation, but it is bound to collapse sooner or laier. It might be thought that mankind had lead sufficient experience to es-tablish this principle before, but our present situation amounts to a demonstration of it secording to the most rigid canons of in-

5. One further element must hereafter be considered by monetary theorists, although it resolves itself into the same principle that we have just stated. It evidently makes no we have just stated. It evidently makes no difference what views about money and value are held by people who have no money to lend; it is the lenders who control the situation. If business were not done upon credit, this would not be so, but it is done upon credit, this would not be so, but it is done upon credit, and without credit our present business could not begin to be done at all. Now, government has repeatedly tried to make people lend who did not want to, but just so soon as the lenders found out what was going on they stopped lending, or charged such a rate as insured them against loss. Hence we have a simple dilemma before government: either put a stop to all business done on credit, or provide laws insuring lenders the return of the money or value loaned. If people who lend money want to be repaid in gold, then there is nothing for government to do but to meet this want. Just at present they are unanimous in the opinion that they do want gold, and the government has simply got to comply with this demand or ruin the country.

"Bimetallic Theory."

Under this heading Mr. Horace White, the gentlemanly usher of gold monometallism in this country, contributes a leading article to his New York Evening Post, and we find it preserved in The Nation, which is now the weekly reservoir of the more serious side of The Post. We attribute the article to Mr., White because he is the only person of intelligence in this country who has ever, so far as we know, made a public speech in behalf of gold more metallism, and because the article shows evidence of the mental blindness which cannot be separated from the advocacy of gold monometallism.

We print in another column the greater part of Mr. White's article, and we have numbered the paragraphs so that our readers may be able to refer to the statements which our comments are

1. We cannot fairly discuss the question whether Mr. White understands the bimetallic theory, but he is either not familiar with it, or he has purposely stated so as to give aptness to his re-We have not space here to go into the scientific theory of bimetallism. It is only necessary to state the factwhich is that it gives to the business and the industries of The people the benefit of the enlarged money basis-a volume of cash capital large enough to float a sufficient supply of sound currency, and takes away the necessity of piling up credits to the panic point. Taking the illustration of two reservoirs, which Mr. White puts forward as an objection, it must be obvious that if one reservoir is rendered useless by monometallism, its place must be filled by in flated credits, or, what is just as bad. by an inflated currency.

The experience of this country unde bimetallism does not show any such fluctuations of values as The Nation suggests. When gold went to a premium silver took its place, and when silver went to a premium gold took its place, and the fluctuations were hardly visible to the business eye. Values and prices were maintained at the same profitable level. The only disturbances that occurred were such as occurred as often under the single gold standard of Great Britain. The fluctuations under the single gold standard in this country, and, in fact, all over the world, have been all in one deadly direction-down, down, down. Values have gone down, prices have gone down-and all for the benefit of a few bondholders and bank ers, whose interests, as compared with those of the people, are not worth considering.

2. In this Mr. White outdoes himself. He not only states the bimetallic theory to suit himself, but he kindly prepares a reply to his objections and puts it in the mouths of the bimetallists. And he goes to greater lengths. He takes a flat paper money argument and credits it to sound money men. What bimetallist has ever held that the decree of the sovereign power can overcome the inequality of values? It has been left to the single gold standard element to maintain that this can be done. They say that our silver dollars are now kept at par because they are redeemable in gold, and they make this statement in the face of the fact that there is not enough gold in the country to redeem our paper money. "The really scien tific bimetallists," Mr. White hastens to say, "do not press this argument to an extreme." No; it is the really scientific goldolators who maintain it. It happens that silver is a commodity whose main function is its use by government as a money metal. It also happens that government, whether scientifically or unscientifically, has taken to itself some authority in the matter of money. It not only stamps certain metals as money, but it has reserved to itself the power to discard some of them. Silver has been thus discarded in many of the nations of Europe. It was discarded in this country in 1873 by chicanery and fraud, and it is practically discarded now. Thus deprived of its main use and function, it has depreciated in value. It is no loaser a money metal. Its chief market-the mints-has been closed against it, and its only value now is that which it derives from its use in the arts and industries and from the small demand for it to coin subsidiary moneysmall change. If government cannot impart value to silver it cannot take it away-but why did the metal depreciate when the Indian council closed its mints to silver? Simply because another step was taken in depriving silver of its use as a money metal. Thus, while no bimetallist claims that the decree of the sovereign power can overcome the inequality of values, every bimetallist, as well as every person of common sense, knows that a government by opening its mints to silver bullion and bestowing upon its coinage the legal tender money function, gives to silver the use and employment to which it has been chiefly put. The legal price becomes the ket price, not because government wills it, but because the use and employment of the metal as money justifies the legalprice. If the use of cotton could be doubled, would that fact tend to increase its price? On precisely the same principle, and for precisely the same reason, the opening of the mints to silver to be coined into legal tender money would increase the market price of the metal until it reached the market price.

3. We call attention to Mr. Horace White's paragraph thus numbered. it were not printed in black and white it would be an assumption too wild to attribute to any sensible person that the Sherman law has or has not had any tendency to increase the price of silver. What would have happened if the law had been carried out-if the bullion had been coined to redeem the notes issued for its purchase-we do not know.

Under the Harrison policy, which is still in operation, the law has never been carried out, and we are now told by John Sherman in his recent letter that it was never intended that the plain terms of the law should be carried out. He declares that it was concocted for the purpose of satisfying the senators from the silver states. In the Sherman law there is not the remotest hint of bimetallism-not the shadow of a shade It is a measure concocted by the repub licans to stave off free coinage.

4. The Sherman law has demonstrated the ability of the goldolators to buy to their use the talents of such men as figure as the republican leaders, and it has demonstrated that these men and their tools will destroy the prosperity of the people or even overturn the government should it be necessary to retain their hold on the financial legislation of the country.

5. This number brings us to the nub of Mr. Horace White's wonderful essay. There has been in times past a belief current that money was instituted for the purpose of facilitating the business people, but according to the Jeems Yellowplush of goldolatry, this is not so. Whatever may be the case in other lands, in this country money was Instituted for the benefit of lenders -the bordholders and bankers-and they "control the situation." The money be longs to them and they will have timic way about it. "The government has simply got to comply with this demand of the lenders," or the lenders will "ruin the country."

That is the ultimatum of goldolatry. and the people may make the most of it.

Call a Halt.

Progress is a good thing, but we do not want too much of it. We should go ahead in a reasonable way, and put on the brakes when our headlong speed is inconvenient or dangerous.

It is already apparent that the success of the rain-making experiments will not be an unmixed blessing. In the western country districts, where the rain-makers have been at work, the farmers resent the innovation, and some of them have appealed to the courts to enjoin the thunder and lightning and untimely cloudbursts. Out in Lyon county, Kansas, James Butler lost a fine field of wheat by a cloudburst. He learned that A. B. Montgomery's rainmaking apparatus had caused the storm and at once sued the experimenter for damages.

We do not see how the rain-makers can keep out of trouble. They cannot bring on a rain just when it will suit everybody. If they make it rain on Monday it will damage farmers who want it postponed until Wednesday, and if it comes on that day another crowd will be mad because it was not delayed until Saturday. The quantity of thes artificial showers will be unsatisfactory The farmer who has given his order for a gentle rain will boil over with raige when he gets a deluge that ruins his crops and damages his lands.

The rain-makers will go slow if they are wise. There are millions of farmers watching them all over the country, and every time these daring fellows squeeze the clouds the sheriff will be on their track. When a rain comes in a natural way the people who lose anything by it have to quietly submit, but the are not going to be drowned or washed away by these newfangled scientists who produce a flood by simply bombarding the clouds.

The Restless West.

It is not pleasant to contemplate the attitude of the western silver states, and it is decidedly unpleasant to note the general tenor of their talk.

The populists of Kansas are reorgan izing the milita with the avowed purpose of having an armed force in readt ness to perpetuate their power and overawe the coople. Then, it will be recellected that Governor Waite, of Colorado, threatens secession or rebellion and talks about the silver men riding in blood to their horses' bridles before they will submit to the goldbugs. Patriotic and peaceful citizens must condemn the military preparations in Kansas and the threats of rebellion in Colorado, however much they may sympathize with the people of those states in their alleged grievandes. Perhaps The New York Tribune treats the situation in a very sensible way when it simply ridicules the whole business. Here is its message to Governor Waite: Do you know, governor, that what you said about blood flowing to the horses' bridles has struck the whole civilized world with awe? Are you aware that when that speech was cabled abroad the whole eastern hemisphere are you aware that when that speech was cabled abroad the whole eastern hemisphere quivered with emotion? That for the last three days princes and potentates have kept the Atlantic cables so hot with questions about you that the sea has fairly bubbled and parbolled whales are lying belly up all the way across? That the Emperor William instructed the German minister to beauting the way across? That the Emperor William instructed the German minister to Inquire at once whether it was likely that the whole 39,000 who voted for you would take up arms, because if they did Caprivi would have to increase the army estimates? That the emperor of Austria, conscience stricken at the part his government has taken in the great conspiracy against silver, has shut the part his government has taken in the great conspiracy against silver, has shut the part acceptage of the silver, has shut the part his government has taken in the great conspiracy against silver, has shut the part his government has taken in the great conspiracy against silver, has shut the part his government has taken in the great conspiracy against silver, has shut the part has s

This is rough on the Colorado revolutionist, but he deserves nothing better. His secession talk is so laughable that we forget the serious motive back of it The spectacle of Colorado cutting loose from the union, with its own army and navy and custom houses along its borders, only provokes a smile. Such a line of action certainly would not improve the silver situation. The white metal would not increase in value if the Golorado people should establish an independent republic and go to work coining silver dollars by the ton. We agree with these angry western citizens that they have been unfairly treated, and that the demonetization of silver is a crime, but the lesson of our eivil war has taught us that it is checen and more satisfactory to settle our differences with ballots and hold our bullets in reserve for a foreign enemy. This is a government of majorities and their will must be carried out in a lawful and an orderly manner, and the disappointed minorities should make the est of their defeat and get ready for another trial of strength at the polls.

This is the American way of doing usiness, and the great body of our people have no patience with individuals, nobs, factions or parties that make a rush for their shotguns when they see that they are outvoted. In the present instance the excited silver nen absurdly precipitate in their rash pro-With an administration gramme. elected upon a bimetallic platform, there is every reason to hope for satisfactory remedial legislation. Congress will not gnore the demands of the people, but will pay very little attention to the agitators who say that they will ride in blood up to their horses' bridles if they cannot have their way. The surest way to injure or defeat a cause is to indulge in such intemperate talk.

Railroads and Immigration. The July number of "Dixie" contains an editorial on the immigration problem in which the position is taken that the mast praticable way of locating foreign immigrants in the south would be to colonize them, thus assuring to the new set-our present labor conditions could not be otherwise guaranteed. How shall this colonization be fected, and what agency or organization can be best employed to do the work? "Dixie" believes that our railway companies are the natural and logical fac-tlers the congenial relations which, under tors of such a work. It says: From a financial standpoint, it occurs to us that the railroads hold the only organization that can undertake this work with any assurance of success. The railroads make the only organization whose interest in a col-ony of this kind would be perpetual. If a syndicate were organized for the sole purpose of locating a colony of immigrants, its interest fa the matter would be at an end as soon as the land was disposed of. If, however, a railroad company should purchase large tracts of land and locate desirable col-onies along its right of way, its direct interest in these colonies would not cease with the sale of the land, but would be, for obvious reasons, continuing and perpetual. The colonies would be, in their freight and passenger traffic, and in the transportation of their produce, a source of revenue to the railroads, and the value and increase of that eyenne would be in proportion to the suc-ess and prosperity of the colonists. Here, een, are interests naturally allied, and mutually dependent, and these conditions mak up an ideal union.

the beginning the railroad companies would have just the same opportunity land syndicate to dispose of lands a profit, but while the syndicate's zeal the new settlers would die with the first transaction, the railroad's real and permanent erest in the newcomers would be but just yun, and the fostering interest and care of these powerful corporations would be a source of invaluable help to the strangers, and a potent and persuasive inducement to bring them here. With interests indentical and so closely interwoven, the prosperity of one would minister to the profit of the other, and there would naturally develop the railroads and the colonists an alliance with mutually beneficent results.

It goes without saying that, in facilities for advertising lands, and for inducing and transporting immigrants, the railreads would have easurable advantage over any organ ization that could be formed for these pur-

It strikes us that these views are thoroughly practical and business-like. If the southern states will make an organized effort to secure a good class of foreign settlers we believe that the railways will do everything that can be reasonably expected of them in actively aiding the movement. When we increase our population and our productive output the railways extend their business and swell their profits. Their interests should make them the zealous and efficient promoters of immigration. As a matter of business the south will. have to take hold of this question sooner or later. We need more people, more money and more products to sell. Our statesmen and railway managers should get together and see what can be done in the way of drawing settlers in this direction.

Horace White, the goldolator of The Evening Post, has no concealments to make He declares that the money lenders control the situation, and that, if the government doesn't carry out their mandates, they will ruin the country. This is giving the people fair warning.

Some of the goldbug newspapers are trying to convince the public that Mr. Cleve land is a very sick man. Nevertheless, he will be well enough to insist on the redemption of the pledges of the democratic platform when congress meets.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

The little town of Tipton, Iowa, is laboring in the threes of a new religious frenzy. A new sect has struck the town called the "Heavenly Recruits." Where they came from nobody seems to know. They sprang up ap-parently out of the ground, or possibly fell down from heaven, and are holding services every hour of the day and night, with twelve preachers, or evangelists, who relieve one an-other and keep the thing a-going. The preaching is of the most lurid hell-fire and brimstone sort, and already a great many converts have been made, also several launtics. Somebody goes insane almost every day, and the wildest seenes are constantly enacted. The Recruits say that the end of the world is only a few days off.

SAYANNAH TODAY.

And the Two Teams Tied for the

WILL FIGHT IT OUT HARD TODAY.

The Teams Throughout the League Are Now Working Hard for First Place. How the Clubs Play.

The second season of the Southern League is now a week old and the interest in the game all over the south appears to be warmer than it was even just before the first season

Every team is now being closely watched by those who are its patrons and admirers.

During the first season the relative strength of the teams was brought out and the people were better prepared to form their own estimate of the values of the clubs than ever bemate of the values of the class than ever be-fore. But the first season was nearly over before the people had made up their minds and they impatiently awaited the beginning of the second season to ascertain the value of the second season to ascertain the value of their estimate.

So when the second season opened a week ago nearly all of the patrons of the game had about prepared a state showing the relative ability of the teams as the maker of that slate weighed it. With the first games of the season the playing was closely watched the season the playing was closely watched, and now that the first week is over many of those who made an estimate of the teams are lost in studying the differences between guessing and knowing.

Many of the teams have disappointed its friends during the past week, and none more so than the Atlantas. Murray and his men played a game the latter part of last season which inspired the hope that it would pull out in the next season. The team opened the season by losing the first game to Chattanooga. Then it picked out the next two games from that team on their own grounds and this pleased the admirers of the team, because it was just what they thought the team should do every day in the year. Then when the team came home and picked the first game from the Macon team every one was sure that the flag would fly from a long pole on the Atlanta grounds.

But the next day when Macon picked one of the games the feeling of exuberance began to hesitate, and when on the third day Macon took the game, making it two out of three, the people did not know what to do. Charleston then came along and caught the first two games, and these defeats, added to those Macon gave us, drove the people away. They did not know what to think, if they knew how to think.

For two days the members of the team were

For two days the members of the team were abused roundly, but every one who indulged in the abuse was free to acknowledge that the Atlantas were much stronger than either of the teams they had been playing.

No one could understand, the defeats.

Saturday the Atlantas knocked the Charlestons out for the third game, and when it was done stock in the Atlanta club went away up. Confidence was again inspired and the belief that Atlanta was the strongest team in the league became general. Now, if the members of the team will pull together for the next few days and land the games on Atlanta's side the crowds will be the biggest the members of the team have ever played before.

That the Atlantas are one of the strongest.

That the Atlantas are one of the strongest teams in the league no one who has seen them the members of the team have ever played before.

That the Atlantas are one of the strongest teams in the league no one who has seen them play or who has studied the records will deny. Since the season opened last week the members of the Atlanta team have made more runs than the total number of runs made by the opposing teams. They have also made more hits and fewer errors, as the records now on file in President Nicklin's office will show. Their base running has been daring and successful and to none of these qualities are the defeats due. Every time the Atlantas have lost the loss has geen due to some slack play, in which errors were not due, but in which there was an apparent want of energy on the part of the player.

The work of Motz on first has been among the best in the league. He has not been driving the ball over the fence as once he did, but he has been finding singles and doubles much more frequently, and that's the kind of hitting that counts.

Connor has played in a little bad luck in the field, but none of his errors were enough to lose the game. But at the bath has been doing the best hitting in the team. There is no better player in the Southern League than Connor. None go into the game with more heart and earnestness than he, and none play it out with more determination to win, He is one of the stresst hitters in the country and the day when Connor don't find a hit comes like the 29th of February.

The work of Ely at shortstop has been of the phenomenal order. He has made one error in the last dozen games he has played and that error was a questionable one, At the bat he is the terror of all the pitchers. He rarely comes up without getting a hit and his hits are always timely—come just when they are needed.

Murray in occurre covers that territory beter than on many man in the south. He never are needed.

Murray in center covers that territory better than any man in the south. He never fails to pull down the bails that come his way and within the last ten days has been litting with a wonderful amount of cleverness. Out of the last nine games he has played Murray has found seventeen litts. If any one can say this is not hitting, then he must be a pig. Every one of Murray's hits, too, came, when hits were needed. Murray is now getting his men into a line of work which is sure to win out.

ting his men into a line of work which is sure to win out.

Murphy has shown himself to be one of the most reliable men on the team. He never fails to do his part in the game and whether he is belind the bat or at the bat those who are looking at the game feel sure that he will take abundant care of that which has been entrusted to him. He has shown himself to be the best catcher in the league and is beyond a doubt one of the best hitters in the south.

yond a doubt one of the best litters in the south.

Moran, the new catcher, has now worked in three games and has made himself a general favorlie. He is not yet fully in harmony with the men playing with him, but in a day or two will have it all his own way. He is one of the prettfest throwers in the country and is mighty good with the stick.

Camp captured the crowd Saturday when he went back to third and the game he put up there showed that he is a great infielder. He is one of the best and most profaising young players in the country and has made lots of friends by his faithful hard work. While out in right field Camp worked just as faithfully as he did before he was removed from third base. He was in the game from the first ball right on through, but he was out of his place and now that he is back at third his friends look for good work from him.

Duffee is one of the best outfielders in the out of his place and now that he is back at third his friends look for good work from him.

Duffee is one of the best outfielders in the league, and the change made Saturday when he was taken away from third and put out in the field pleased all. In the field Duffee can do better work than he can at third.

Newman will not be able to play for several days on account of the injury he received Saturday and during that time one of the catchers will be in the outfield. Newman is one of the quickest and fastest base-runners in the country and a cleaner fielder never put on a uniform. He has not been hitting up to his standard since he joined the Atlantas, and in the Chattanooga games he reached out and since then he has been hitting high up. It is now thought that Newman is coming around and that by the time he is ready to go in again he will have his eye on the ball in his old-time shape.

The three pitchers are all doing well. Rettger is still in fine shape and will help to win many games for the Atlantas this season, Darby, it is true, had a bad case of rattles a day or two ago, but he says that he is now all right and that he will puil down his share of the games. Dewald's work Saturday shows that he can pitch as good bail as any of them.

There is scarcely a team in the big league that heart a capare from the season.

There is scercely a team in the big league that hasn't a player from the Southern League. The big leaguers have begun to look south for their new timber, as the Southern League is confessedly the strongest league outside of the National League. Long is doing fine playing with Baltimore, Stafford is a star in the New York team, German and Wilson. Augusta's crack battery. will join New York today, Colcolough goes to Pittsburg, Ancient Jerry Denny joins Louisville, Chicago is contending for Abber, Macon's pitcher. Schmidt is with the Giants, and several other old Southern Leaguers are there playing fine ball.

The Atlantas and the Savannahs Will Come Together for the Second Series Games.

Jimmy Manning and his men from Savannah came in yesterday afternoon from Chattanoga and are stopping at the Markham.

This afternoon he will come in certact with Murray and his men out at Reisbine park.

Surday, who was once a star player in the National League, lead a revival meeting in Chicago last Sunday.

Bumpus Jones, the cyclone pitcher who twirked for the Atlantas a portion of last scason, is with New York. He went in the box for the Glants last week, but had to be taken out before the game ended. Cincinnati let him go three weeks ago and New York may do the same.

Al Mauck, who was a star in the Southern League last year, is taking even a higher stand in the big league. He is known as Chicago's winning pitcher.

Pitcher Tom Parrott, who went from Rirmingham to Ohicago and afterwards raised such a row about going to Cincinnati, pitched bis first game for the Reds Saturday. He showed up only moderately well.

showed up only moderately well.

McMahon's shortstop playing is phenomenal.

George Ulrich has developed into a regular Ariie Latham. His coaching is immense. Brooklyn is trying to purchase Chamberlain, the Cincinnati pitcher.

Gastright, the National League pitcher whom New Orleans tried to secure, has signed with Boston.

Al Hungler, who pitched for New Orleans several years ago, died the other day at his home in Cincinnati. He was at one time with the St. Louis Browns, and was very popular among his fellows.

As soon as New Orleans asked Comiskey about Ward the former put him back on the Cincinnati team regularly. Ward is improving in his right felding and his base running is surprising even Cincinnati, while the league pitchers do not seem able to fool him to any great extent.

Delehanty, of Philadelphia, is the first piayer to make 100 hits. He accomplished that feat last Thursday, his total in that game reaching 101.

Manager Ward, of New York, says of Stafford, late of Augusta: "Stafford is a jewel. In all four games so far he has led off with a home run. The New York public will like him on sight." Ward will probably play Stafford at shortstop, for it was but recently that he discovered that the new acquisition was a brilliant infielder.

Pitcher Sigsby, a college man, of New York, was offered to the Eastern League, but no one cared for him and he was given his release.

was offered to the Eastern League, but no one cared for him and he was given his release.

The great "King" Kelly, Outfielder Burke, Pitchers "Bumpus" Jones and Schmidt, all of New York, are all spoken of for releases. Third Baseman Jerry Denny, of Augusta, has been sold to Louisville, and Keeler, of New York, will take his place.

Augusta has signed Spies, Boltz and Sharp, of the California League, to take the place of the sold players. Manager Stallings will take Catcher Wilson's vacated place.

Outfielder Frank, of Memphis, has been sold at a large price to Chicago.

Long, of this year's Charlestons, is playing great ball for the Baltimores. He is doing the best batting he ever did.

Pitcher Dolan, who was released by St. Louis, will be given a trial by Ted Sullivan, of Nashville. St. Louis first wanted to sell, but Ted waited and got his man for nothing. Harper, the California pitcher, refuses to go to New Orleans. He is said to be the most perfect master of the curve in the country. He kept right on practicing it for years, never minding the hits made off him, until he so perfected himself as to have perfect control in connection with the curve, a quality which very few pitchers possess. But Harper has interests on the coast, as he has saved his money, and, therefore, prefers to remain there.

Manager Earle receives more press comments than any other Southern League player. The Comments are very complimentary to this desorving player.

The Birmingham association issued a special invitation to Hon. Thomas G. Jones and staff, Colonel Louis V. Clark and staff, and the sonohors of the respective companies of the Second regiment. Alabama state troops, to see the game between the Montgomery and Birmingham teams.

REFUSED A $17,000 PURSE.

Fitzsimmons Decilnes to Fight Choynaki for

That Amount, Weigh in at 165.

New York, July 16.—Things must be rolling oretty easy for Bob Fitzsimmons these days Every boxer cannot afford to turn up an offer of a $17.000 purse, but Fitz is one of the lucky few. For months Joe Choynski the lucky few. For months Joe Choynski has been anxious to try on the midde-weight champion and various offers have been made for such a match. Newton, of Coney island, started with $15.000 and Malley, the Chicago match-maker, raised him $2.000, but if they sent the purse along to $50,000 Fitz says he would not box "Parson" Davies's man except at the middle-weight limit.
"I'm a middle-weight myself," he said to a reporter, "and there is no reason why I should go out of my class, though I am satisfied that I can beat Choynsid."

I can beat Choynski."
"If you should you can make $17.000, for the Californian does not want a cent if he loses." Fitz was told.
"That isn't the question." he went on to say. "I am in no particular need of money and if I should ever fight a heavy-weight again my opponent will be the holder of the cham-pionship and I'll have a good chance to lick him whoever he may be. There are plenty of middle-weights in the field, but if I can't get a match any other way I'll take on two of them in one fight."

"But Choynski is willing to weight in at 165 pounds."

"He'll have to come down seven pounds and weigh at the ringside if he wants to fight me. Then I'll bet him from $1,000 to $5,000," said

New York, July 16.—Lackle Thompson, the 140-pound champion of Scotland; Jack Slavin, Paddy Slavin's brother; Al Odea, amateur champion of Australia, and Billy Daglish, Thompson's backer, arrived in this city on the Servia tonight.

Slavin, who acted as spokesman for the party, said the English people would like to see Mitchell get the bleedin' 'ead knocked off him, don't-cher know. Thompson looks every inch a fighter.

Williamson has been announced to take place on the 19th instant. Both of the young people are well known and favorites in society circles of the state, and the announcement of their approaching nuptials will be received with interest.

Miss Williamson is a daughter of Colonel James T. Williamson, of Jefferson, She is bright and vivacious and very talented, both in music and in art. Her beauty is of the rich, oriental type and she has for several seasons past been considered one of the most beautiful women in this part of the state. She is a graduate of Martin institute and now director of music in the same institution.

Mr. Bennett is a graduate of the State university, graduating in the class of '98 with high distinction. The class at parting offered an elegant carriage to the first member of the class to get married. Mr. Bennett, it appears, will win the prize, his marriage occurring exactly one mount from the day on which he received his diploma of graduation. When the marriage is certified the president of the class will announce to the members the name of the winner and the carriage will be forwarded within the required time. Mr. Bennett at present is located in Jefferson, but has connected himself with the Avery drug house and will shortly remove to Atlanta.

A QUEER GAME.

Twenty Chinamen Caught Gambling by the Police Yesterday.

THE WHOLE CROWD WAS ARRESTED

And a Great Stack of Gambling Tools and a Pile of Money Were Captured-A Distinguished Tourist in the Lot

China was ably represented at the police station last night. If other nations had applied for space they would have had good grounds for complaint that the pig-tailed orientials had more than their rightful share. Just twenty of Atlanta's Chinamen occupied apartments at the station last night.

apartments at the station last night.

Smiling Chinamen, sour-looking Chinamen, old and young Chinamen, dude Chinamen, plain looking Chinamen, every type of Chinamen was there. The very youngest of the lot, a dude in a straw hat, red shoes, yellow coat and a diamond stud, seemed to be the leader. The fine assortment were arrested in Yee Lee's laundry, on Decatur street, near Iry, by several officers, who had heard that the place was a gambling den. When the officers entered a big game of dominoes was in progress and one of the celestials held a big sum for the crowd. They were all arrested. Chollie Lee, a Chinese tourist from Mott street, New York, who only reached Atlanta on his southern tour late Saturday night, is not forming very favorable impressions of this city. He got here Saturday night from the world's fair. He says it's a "heapee big the world's fair. He says it's a "heapee big show," and he wants to see the south. He fell in with Atlant's C.inese residents yester-day and last night he accompanied nineteen of them to police headquarters.

Chollie is a great dude. He wore a fine tailor-made suit and smoked in a lordly fashion. He has an unusually intelligent fashion. He has an unusually intelligent face and has been traveling selling goods for a New York firm. He went to Yee Lee's place at 60 1-2 Decatur street last night to play a friendly game of dominoes, he says. He says the game is played "allee samee Mellican man play it," and he had no money on it. He forgot that he was among strange yellow faces in the enjoyment of the game, but his fun was cut short by the opening of the toor and the entering of a half-dozen officers, headed by Detectives Ed Cason.

The detectives have had their eyes on the place for several weeks and it was particularly unfortunate that they should have chosen the night of all nights, when such a distinguished tourist as Chollie Lee was present, to have raided it.

The laundry is in a basement and is peculiarly adapted for gambling, as it can ordinarily be conducted without discovery. The attention of the police and detectives was attracted to it by the large number of Chinamen who visited it. They became convinced that it was a gambling place and planned a raid several nights ago, but it fafled to work. Last night Detectives Cason, Looney, Redford McConnell, Sergeants Ozburn and Jennings and Patrolinan Grant went to the place. They waited outside the door until it was opened by a Chinaman who was leaving. Then the officers stepped quickly into the midst of the gamblers. Queer-looking gambling articles were scattered upon the floor. A profusion of silver money, mixed with Chinese coin, was heaped upon the able. So intent were the Chinamen upon their game that they did not perceive the presence of the officers until the latter were beside the table. Then twenty Chinamen sprang to their leet in great consternation. They started to flee, but officers stood at every entrance.

Then the military training of Sergeants Ozburn and Jennings came into play. They mustered the Chinamen into military line and marched them to police headquarters. By twos they were marched down Decatur street to the prison, where they were searched and locked up. Most of them had fat pocket.

Five precincts are yet to be heard from and up to a late hour hast night neither of the gentlemen who were in the race knew anything of the vote at those five points.

As far as the returns had been secured Judge McCurdy had a lead of five over Dr. Goss.

The issuing of county bonds was the text of each of the gentlemen's race. Judge McCurdy was willing for the county commissioners to issue the bonds without leaving it to a vote of the people, while Dr. Goss wanted the question of bonds left to a vote of the people. The proposed bonds are to be used in the construction of a county courthouse and the macadamizing of the county roads.

About the middle of the afternoon the officers located a tiger on Green street and, radding it, captured Henry Holmes. Tom Morrow, John Evans, Albert Williams, Hoyt Dameron and William Jones. About a gallon of inquor and a pack of playing cards were captured by the officers and about a score of negroes were put to flight. The negroes arrested were carried to the police station and locked up to await the tender mercles of Judge Andy Calhoun, who will take charge of them today.

IT IS A COMET:

And Not the Aurora Borealis as Was First

And Not the Aurora Borealis as Was First Supposed.

Washington, July 16.—At 10:30 o'clock last night the comet, which is now the object of so much search and speculation, suddenly developed an enormous tail, which, to the rapracticed eye, was taken to be a display of the aurora borealis. At that hour Professor Frisboe, of the naval observatory, was studying the comet through the ulne-inch glass. He noticed a loug streak of greenish white light shoot out from the comet and extend itself almost to the zenith. At first the nucleus of the comet, being at that moment hidden by a fleecy cloud, it was thought that the aurora berealis had sent out an advance rotice of a brilliant engagement, but as there was no dickering and as the light came steadily from where the comet had last been seen, the professor concluded that he was seeing a comet in process of development. The tail of the comet was threty degrees in length, a distance about sixty times as long as the monds wide, and extended from ten degrees above the horizon almost to the zenith. It was plainly visible to the naked eye and was watched for some time by the corps of observers at the institution.

"There is no way to explain the sudden freak of the comet. They are erratic bodies at best and the only thing to sav is that this one had reached a stage where it was ready to throw out the long streak of luminous gas which we call a tail, it was not a bushy tail, but was a long ribbon of light, about three times as wide as the moon.

John Brown, Who Took a Dose of Decatur Street Medicine,

STILL IN QUITE A SERIOUS CONDITION.

He Was Still Unable to Speak Yesterday, and Was Attended by Dr. Vinson. Dr. Marion Not Blamed.

That distracting toothache that troubled John Brown, colored, on last Saturday, and the ardent impulse that urged him to apply to a Decatur street medicine man to have it extracted, may yet cause him to join his ilous namesake whose spirit still goes marching on. Up to noon yesterday he had not recovered sufficiently from the overdose of something that was given him, to speak. His last request was made to Dr. Lolla, who fired the disquieting drug into him with serious results. Dr. W. D. Vinson attended the sick man and ministered to him faithfully, using every means known to his skill to counteract the effect of the drug that had been given Brown.

It was impossible to determine the na-ture of the drug that had been administered ed to the negro. Dr. Vinson was of the ture of the drug that had been administered ed to the negro. Dr. Vinson was of the opinion that it was cocaine, but he was not able to definitely determine. It might have been a preparation that the young physician gave him consisting of a mixture of cocaine with other drugs. Any way, the dose was paralyzing in its effects.

A brief account of Brown's little adventure with his tooth and the medicine was given in yesterday morning's paper. Brown went to the place an Decatur street where Dr. Marion sells a medicine advertised as "Swamp Angel." Dr. Marion also advertises to pull teeth without pain for a small sum. This caught Brown, who was in the agonies of a long attack of toothache, and he went up to the stand and announced that he was ready to be operated upon Young Dr. Lolla, who was employed to assist Dr. Marion, waited on the negro. The young physician gave him an injection to deaden the pain, as is usual in such cases, and in a short while Brown began to show signs of undue effects from the drug. His condition created alarm, and he was placed in arousing the patient from his deep stupor, but not in restoring him to his normal condition.

Brown was carried to his home in the rear

Brown was carried to his home in the rear of 274 Woodward avenue, where he has since been under the treatment of Dr. Vinson. Dr. Vinson stated last night that he thought Brown would recover, but thought it likely that he would be kept in bed for several days He stated that he was totally unable to decide what drug had been given the negre.

Dr. Marion is not blamed about the matter, as it is stated that he had nothing to do with administering the medicine, and the dose given was not his patent mixture.

He continued the fight and finally succeeded in killing the snake after a hard battle, in which it several times sprang upon his body and fastened its fangs in him.

He then started for his home, a mile and a half away. Before he reached there he was in agony from the bites. He took every remedy known to alleviate his suffering, but in a short time his wounds find become so painful that every effort made to relieve him was without avail. He died soon after in the greatest agony.

This is the first case of the kind known in this region. Rattlesnakes are so rare that but few persons are aware of their dangerous character.

EMMA VADERS AGAIN VIOLENT. The Well-Known Actress Becomes Mildly

She expected to go out with Thomas W.

took a dip. A little later she fainted in church, and Sunday evening was unconscions for some time. Tuesday she went out for a short walk, but fell, and was assisted home by a policeman.

Yesterday morning she became violent until a policeman was called in. On being notified fler father went on from Philadelphia, and took her to the Duffington cottage.

Miss Vaders said that she had just received a telegram from her father saying that Emma was well and would be home today. Miss Vaders's last sickness was in October, 1892, in Worcester. We, as passenger men, must, therefore, educate ourselves and give our managing officets the benefit of our increased knowledge. They are not too proud to learn from us, nor are they unwilling to convey information to us regarding other departments of the service which will be of benefit to all concerned. Most of our managing officers have learned their business from the ground up. They have commenced, usually, at the bottom of the ladder and have been promoted until they have attained the resonant's positions they now hold. As a rule, however, they have begun their career in the operating or construction departments, and their k we'ge of the details of securing traffic is incidental, as their every day struggle is with a different as their every day struggle is with a different set of problems; or if they have had exper-rience in the traffic department it is not been recent, and we all know that traffic methods

Bonaparte's Watch.

A very interesting watch, one possessed by Bonaparte, will soon be on exhibition at the world's fair. The mechanism, which is evi-Bonaparte, will soon be on exhibition at the world's fair. The mechanism, which is evidently hand-made and from special design, is a work of ingenuity and oddity. The works are set in a gold urn, on the face of which is the dial, about the size of a 25-cent piece, whereon hands, like a spider's legs, point out the hours. Above this is the balance wheel, pivoted on a small dial, and this pretty mechanical arrangement is inclosed in crystals on both sides. It is protected on the back by a good shell, like an ordinary watch, but when that is opened the whole interior mechanism is exposed to the view. The watch has a little bit of history which has never been mentioned in any one of the lives of Napoleon. In the year 1812, while traveling in a coach and six through Holland on a visit to The Hague, Napoleon passed through the fortress Nimeguen. The inhabitants gave nim a grand reception, and a procession was formed, in which many of the soldiers who had served under the emperor acted as guard of honor. While approaching the quay on thorviver Waal, one of the tributaries of the Rhiue, the horses attached to the emperor's carriage became unmanngarble. The vehicle was dragged to the edge of the precipice and was on the point of turning over when William Behnen selzed the frightened horses and succeeded in stopping them and prevented the threatened catastrophe. Napoleon alighted and inquired his rescuer's name, at the same time offering him, in recognition of his services, a commission in the army, but Mr. Behnen politely declined the offer. The emperor then asked him why he had endangered his own life to save him. The old soldier replied: "Sire, the loss of my life would have been an irreparable one to the country." Napoleon was so pleased with the answer that he took this watch from his pocket and presented it to Mr. Behnen as a souvenir, the latter declining all pecuniary reward. Mr. Behnen afterward kept the posthouse at Elton, and at his death the watch fell to Theodore Goris, an uncle of the present owner, with wh

That Terrible Scourage.

Malarial disease is invariably supplemented by disturbance of the liver, the bowels, the stomach and the nerves. To the removal of both the cause and its effects Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is fully adequate. It "fills the bill" as no other remedy does, performing its work thoroughly. Its ingredients are pure and wholesome, and it admirably serves to build up a system broken by ill health and shorn of strength. Constitution, liver and kidney complaint and nervousness are conquered by it.

IN THE CHURCHES.

The Thermometer Was Too High for Many Worshipers.

THE UNION MEETING AT THE TENT.

Dr. Lee Addressed the Audience on the Beligious Side of the Chautauqua. Bishop Nelson on Wages of Sin.

The mercury went away up in the thermometers and it was not favorable to churchgoing. Many a seat was empty yesterday. But the preachers and the singers had the warm part of it. Those who cuttheir sermons a little short were not to be blamed. Preaching was wilting both at night and in the morning.

At the Tent. The chautauqua tent was well filled last night and this was probably the last time for good while to come. On Saturday night a rally had been held. This was a union meeting. Many of those who went are not regular attendants at church, but they went out to hear the singing and talks of whatever preachers might be present.

Mr. Case called the chorus on the platform art. Case caned the chorus on the platform and soveral old familiar hymns were given with great spirit. Dr. J. W. Lee and Rev. Mr. Holderby assisted in the services.

Dr. Lee discussed the religious side of the chautanqua in an interesting talk. He said: The chautauqua movement is now world-

The chautauqua movement is now world-wide. Starting at Chautauqua lake, New York, about twenty years ago, under a brush harbor, by Bishop Viacent and a number of Bible students it has gone round the world, and embraces within its course of study now all the sciences. It has grown with the passing years every whither. All the churches are in it, and all the colleges have summer school accompaniments. At Oxford university in Engiand, the great scholars of Britain meet and discuss the questions of the day. At Grindelwald, in Switzerland, theologians and scientists meet and exchange opinions and present papers on all subjects of human interest.

and present papers on all subjects of human interest.

This Atlanta Chautauqua, the youngest of the assemblies, is destined to play an important role in moditing opinion and influencing life in this part of our great country. Every great thanker on earth now utilizes this free and ourdoor method of getting his message to the people. Prelates of the Catholic church, archibishops of the warch of England, and bishops of the warch of England, and bishops of the warch of England, and bishops of the denominations her sending through the chautauqua assemblies their newest thoughts. All this is bringing about unity of mind, and wide fellowship, and better relations between peoples and charches of different names. It is the sign of better times and nobler living and higher thinking. As to what side all of this is religious, it is hard to determine. It is all religious, or at least, it is all Christian, which is a better term to apply to it than that of religious.

It all tends to eliminate narrowness and figotry. It puts emphasis on the right things. It discounts and disintegrates supidity. It wages an unending war on conceit and provincialism. It widens the boundary lines of the neighborhood. It makes disgraceful and difficult the life of the selfish, sortid, low-minded man. It brings together kindred spirits and unites them in the bonds

Christianity, it teaches to be a pulsating 1. Caristianity, it teaches to be a pulsating life, an animated fact, rather than a theory, or a system. Christ said "I am the way, the truth and the life." To be a Christian is not simply to have a Methodist label, or a Baptist label, or to be a subscriber to a Presbyterian Confession of Fulch. It is to have the spirit and mind of Christ.

2. It teaches that Christianity is not simply a set of rules to restrain from doing wrong, but a series of impulses and motives reproduced in the life from contact with Christ that disposes toward all that is right and high.

Many people have no higher idea of the Christian religion than to suppose that it consists in not doing some things labeled as wrong.

Christ that disposes toward all that is right and high.

Many people have no higher idea of the Christian religion, than to suppose that it consists in not doing some things labeled as wrong.

This is like supposing a man is a farmer if he keeps all the stumps dug up and all the weeds and bushes cut down in his flead. Now this is negative, and preparatory aspect of farming, but if one newe went beyond this stage he would not be put down as a farmer at all. He would be only a stump digger, a bush chopper and mud cutter. When the farmer presents himself at the fair he must not being the old dry weeds and bushes he has cut down in his field, but specimens of the corn and wheat and grapes and neaches and watermelons he has produced in it. The reason the farmer removed the weeds was because he had respect to the seed he was to plant. One of the saddest sights lamginable is to hear a man get up in a religious meeting and tell about the things he has not done, the sinh he has not committed, me bailrooms he has not gone to, the frams he has not drank, the lies he has not told. The fruits of the spirit are love, loy, peace, temperance, meekness, charity, etc. Against such there is no law. The truits of the spirit do not consist in a lot of things a han does not do, but in something growing lirectly up in the life. A heavy crop of defruits of the spirit growing in the disposition, and temper and thought of the disposition, and temper and thought of the disposition, and temper and suntherest of making high claims to advanced sanctity. The sanctity will get adventised in the fruits which all see in the life.

A person gives evidence of being pinched and poverty-stricken at some post, when he rings the changes in public assemblies about how good he is. Northing would be so nsviess and unnecessary as for a large, full-blown rose to call attention of passers-by to the fact that it was red and large. Nature advertises its size and color in a more shimple and significant way. It is well always to give due credit to the Holy Spi

At the Church of Our Father.

Rev. W. R. Cole had for his text Colossians 4:17, and spoke on "One Ministry and Many Calls." The word ministry means originally Calls." The word ministry means originally service. There are many different calls for service, accordings to various circumstances, and the various individuals. Some of us are made for meditative life, others for science, for benevolent activity, for art, and for all their ministry lies in their special endowments, by all their gifts can be made useful to bring others nearer to God, and thus to serve them in the most important manaer. If we speak of the ministry most people think of the pulpit and its occupant, but others, for instance the choir of the church, are sometimes of just as much significance and the music might touch a heart, which had been untouched by the words from the pulpit.

Dr. Barnett preached on yesterday morning from Deut. il, 7, last clause: "He knoweth thy walkings through this great wilderness: these forty years the Lord thy God hath been with thee; thou hast lacked nothing."

The children of Israel, while in the desert land, indeed lacked nothing. The Lord was with them as a pillar of cloud by day and a pillar of fire by night. When they were an hungered in the evening after long marches they received their food from on high, and an the morning they would find their manna upon the ground. Even in the time of danger and peril they were protected by the strong arm of God.

In the text, by the word he is generally arm of God.

In the text, by the word he is generally meant God. He knoweth all our walkings, all the paths and byways of the great desert of life; He knows every visible and every possible place therein and he knows our paths when we are upon the verge of danger and

Many of you have been to the great caves in the lime regions of our country and seen ander the glow of the leader's torch how the beautiful pillars which rise here and there in our path grow vivid and brilliant and we are thoughtlessly drawn toward them, but we dare not step out of the path of the guide for fear of danger. We know that every pillar and every step is familiar to him and we follow in his footsteps, knowing that a step or two either way might precipitate us into some cavera.

So it is in life. We are lured by the world to take steps of imprudence which lead to our rain and destruction. Let us not become intoxicated with the brilliant stalagnites and stalactites of this life, but follow closer to the great leader of the world, so that our feet may slip not and our living be more in accord with His.

Trinity.

In accord with His.

Trinity.

Dr. Lewis preached a fine sermon from the subject of the joys here on earth as compared to the joys beyond the cemetery. He took for his text a verse from one of the songs of David, Ps. xvi, 11: "Thou wilt show me the path of life, in thy presence is fullness of joy, at thy right hand there are pleasures forevermore."

Dr. Lewis spoke for forty minutes of the pleasures and joys of this world and the pleasures and joys in the world to come. A beautiful thought was that the pleasures and riches of this world are of no avail, they take wings and leave us, but in the path of life is a path of peace, the joys of which extend beyond the cemetery.

The temporal joys of the merchant are full counters and good trade, that of the lawyer, to win his case; but the real joys of the Christian is Christ and in Him the soul overflows with joy, if the soul overflows here on earth, what will it be over yonder, where it will catch the strains of the sweet, heavenly music. Such joys are waiting for the lovers of Christ.

Considering the heated term, the congregation was large. At no church is there a more cultured andience than at Trinity. The singing is by the congregation, led by a precutor who stands near the organ. This is exactly the plan of Spurgeon's and Talmage's churches. The Methodist church book alone is used at Trinity and the congregation seed as the books are put into strangers' pews and as he is invited to sing, few, if any, in that great audience fail to join in the old Methodist hymns.

Moore Memorial Church. The usual morning services were held at

The usual morning services were held at this church yesterday morning. Only a stender congregation was to hear the pastor, Rev. A. R. Hoiderby, who preached a very strong sermon from the following text: "And if thy right hand offend thee, cut it off and cast it from thee."—Mat. v. 36.

Sin is sweeter to poor man than righteonsthan anything else. Whether it has visited other worlds we know not?

We know that it has destroyed the mornibeauty of man. Sin is a part of man's make up just as much as the branches are a part of the free. It is easier to commit sin than not. It is easier to form a bad habit than a good one. It is easier to give up a good habit than to quit a bad one.

Sin is sweeter to poor man 'than righteosness. It is easier to tell a lie than to tell the truth. Yes, a lie is profitable for a time or else he would not tell it. Sin is profitable for a time to the carnal man or else he would not commit sin. The Bible nowhere says man rolls righteousness under his tongue as a sweet morsel, but says so about sin. Sin is sweet and enjoyable to the carnal heart. The baliroom is more enjoyable than a serveic in Ged's house. If not so, why so much more popular than the church?

A man is a fool who has a diseased member of his body and does not amputate it when it would save his life. Sin is a disease to the human soul and offends the body, therefore, we have got to cut this out of our bottles or else we shall perish. We have got to cut this out of our bottles or else we shall perish. We have got it cut it off quick or else we shall perish. A patient under the surgeon's knife has it all cut at once and quickly and completely. Not a little slowly today and a little fomorrow, but all now. Sin will injure and destroy the body. Jesus Christ is the great surgeon who will cut off the disease of sin. If we neglect so important a duty to our selves we shall be one day destroyed. He who holds sin as a sweet morsel and refuses to have it stopped and cut out will be damned and forever lost, but, he who is relieved of thi

The Central Presbyterian Church. The music, always an attractive feature at the central Presbyterian church, was especial-

The music, always an attractive feature at the central Presbyterlan church, was especially enjoyable yesterday. Instead of the usual contraito and tenor, Miss Annie Payne and Mr. Will King sung with the choir, which did not suffer at all from the change. Miss Payne, especially has an excellent voice, a contraito at once strong and sweet, and sings with admirable taste and expression. A beautiful arrangement of the "Te Deum" was sung as a voluntary, and a trio, "Hear My Prayer, O, Father," as offertory.

Dr. Strickler's sermon was from acts II: 27, "And the disciples were called Christians first at Antioch."

He said that Antioch was a large and important city, and was one of the first places where the disciples established a church. The many difficulties in the way did not deter them, and their example should encourage us to like efforts. The word "Christian" was not given or assumed by the disciples, but applied by the heathen as a term of decision. He said that there were several characteristics of the Christian by the possession of which he could be known. These were belief on Christ, not in, but on him; true repentance; a thorough and complete change of character, a new birth, not simply a reformation of life; and a consecrated life. All who coffied themselves Christians should examine these characteristics.

First Christian Church. First Christian Church.

The subject of Dr. Williamson's sermon yesterday was: "Rooted and grounded in love are essential to Christian growth." The speaker showed that there was a wonderful harmony between the laws of the material and spiritual worlds, enough to safely luzard the affirmation that the author of one was the author of the other. There is, said the doctor, no explanation of the mystery of this world and the wondrous creation except on the supposition that it was to be inhabited by such a being as man. Beasts might have devoured its vegetation and birds have eaten its grain, but what of its iron, gold, silver, diamonds and con? This leads one, said the speaker, to the belief that other worlds are inhabited and that splendid Jupiter and Saturn are not purposeless in their great creations. When in your flight you have passed suns and systems, worlds countless and suns splendid, with Richter's angel you will still have to echo: "And there is none of the universe of God, Lo, also there is no beginning."

This wonderful universe, however, reveals only one side of God. It makes us feel how majestic, how omnipotent, how great is our Creator. There is a better side to our Father. It is that revelation which comes to us through Jesus, our savior. It is the evidence of the divine, unfathomed and illimitable love which is the very essence and nature of God. Across no blazing world, nor in any bright constellation flashing its beauty in the sky do we see love written. In the face of the anointed Savior, in the red blood poured from his pierced side, in the breaking of his great heart for us do we understand this divine love. In the realm of Grace God is love. The soil of love is the soil in which the soul of man is to be "rooted and grounded" if he would ever grow into the beauty and blessing of the life of Christ, When a man has Christ in his heart he is reliciously safe. Christ dwells in the hearts of his people by faith. The plant parakes of the nature of the soil and die fruit does the same. Planted in love yesterday was: "Rooted and grounded in love

At the First Baptist.

Hot as was yesterday's weather, Dr. Hawthorne had a full congregation in attendance upon the morning services at his church. He preached a fine sermon, dealing mainly with Bible mystery and the idle curlosity of human beings to go to the bottom of questions with which they should not trifle. There were mysteries of the Bible with which men should not trifle and which they were incapacitated to understand. The mystery of evil was one of these things. People would continue to ask why God allowed evil to exist in the world. It was a question beyond mortals and they should not ask, since the knowing would do them no good. The asking of such idle questions was as foolish as it would be for one to stand in a burning building and inquire about the origin of the fire before making an effort to escape. He closed with a strong admonition to his nearers to believe in God and trust Him to reveal his mysteries in His own good time. At the First Baptist.

The Bishop st St. Philip's.

Bishop Kinloch Nelson preached at St. Philip's yesterday morning to a hot Sunday congregation. His topic was the wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life. The death meant is not of the body, but of the soul. As surely as man leads a life of sin his soul will perish. One is the cause and the other the effect. Man is a free agent. He can sin or not as he pleases. God does not tempt man, but suffers him to be tempted, having given him strength to withstand temptation. Obedience is opitonal. Man is not a machine like a watch, made to run so, long in a certain way and then wear out and be thrown aside.

Man is not a machine like a watch, made to run so, long in a certain way and then wear out and be thrown aside.

Eternal life is the gift of God. He grants it to man in recognition of the fulfillment of his laws.

Speaking of the sacrament, the bishop said that it is a blessing to the Christian who observes it. Like the study of the Bible and prayer, the more the Christian indulges in either the better he is. At St. Luke's.

Or. Barrett, dean of St. Luke's, preached an able sermon yesterday morning on the Latin church. It was a sermon full of instruction and was deeply appreciated by the large congregation.

STOLE A BRIDE. Sixteen-Years-Old John Collins, the Violinist,

Steal's a Farmer's Daughter.

State Years Old John Collins, the Violinist,

Steal's a Farmer's Daughter.

The sixteen-year-old boy who goes about the streets with his younger brother playing a violin has stolen a bride and is charged with tampering with the United States mails. The police are after him and so is the frate father of the young lady whom he carried away from home.

The state-playing bride-stealing young man has been a familiar figure on the streets of the city for several months. He came to Atlanta from near Lawvenceville, where he learned to coax music out of the violin. After getting proficient in his art he and his younger brother came to Atlanta and earned a good many nickles by playing popular alson the doorsteps of residences. The youngster is named J. T. Collins, and his father recently moved to the city.

No one wan distened to the music of the youthful violin player ever suspected that he was in love and was on the point of running off with a bride. If such a thing had been suggeested to the numerous auditors of the boy musickin it would have been discarded as too preposterous to be though of. But such was the case.

The object of the young violinist's adoration was Miss Mary Maffett, the sixteen-year-old boy musician it would have been discarded as too preposterous to be though of. But such was the case.

The object of the young violinist's adoration was Miss Mary Maffett, the sixteen-year-old daughter of Farmer William Maffett, who lives a few miles out from Lawrenceville. The father of the young girl strongly opposed the love-making of the young musician and tried to keep the two from meeting. But it is an old story thet love knows no barriers, and it came to pass that the two frequently met.

Last Thursday morning Miss Maffett disappeared from home and inquiry soon elicited the fact that she left in the company of the violinist. The father of the girl hurried to the ordinary to warn him not to issue a marriage license to the youthful pair. Yesterday Farmer Maffett came to Atlanta looking for the young runaways. He reported the case to the officers and turned over to Detective Green a huge havy revolver which he had found where Colins had been stopping. He could find neither Collins had been stopping. He could find neither Collins nor his daughter, however

He says Coilins is guilty of a violation of the postal laws, as he went to the Lawrenceville postoffice and took out his. Maffett's, mail and opened it. He says he will have Coilins prosecuted for this.

A full description of the couple was given to all the policemen and they were instructed to arrest them. Maffett says the two walked the entire distance from Lawrenceville to Atlanta. The detectives are after Collins.

ON TOBACCO CULTURE.

An Interesting and Instructive Bulletin Issued on This Subject.

The most serious problem that is now engaging the attention of the "cotton raising states" is the discovery of some staple-crop favored by the climatic influences of these states, and which may be planted alongside with cotton, thus reducing the cotton acreage. Hence the bulletin issued from the experiment s'ation of Alabama by Professor Bondurant, the professor of agriculture in the Agricultural and Mechanical college, and agriculturist of the experiment station, on "the tobacco plant," embodying the results of his experiments.

embodying the results of his experiments with this plant, is most timely. The bulletin discusses the experiments conducted in raising plants on the station the past year, the comparison of several different varieties of tabacco grown and the testing of the quality of the tobacco grown for cigar purposes. It contains many illustrations, showing the method of covering the plant beds with canvass and different methods of raising the plants, transplanting, field culture, method of suckering, planting, field culture, method of suckering, topping and harvesting the plants; an illustration showing a modern barn, and method of stripping, prizing and curing. The bulletin gives a detailed statement of the method of preparing the plant beds, the raising and transplanting the plants, the preparation of the tobacco field, and the way that it should be worked, harvested, cured and prepared for market, the aim being to give the farmers, particularly of this state, in a brief and concise form, all the information that is needed for the successful cultivation of this plant.

The bulletin makes the following striking comparison:

The bulletin makes the following striking comparison:

"The yield of cotton in the United States in the year 1888, was 180 pounds per acre, average price per pound eight and one half cents; value per acre $15.30. With to-bacco, during the last decade, the annual production has been about on sixth that of cotton; and the average yield per acre, about seven hundred and twenty five pounds, with an average of eight and one half cents per pound, making the value of tobacco per acre $61.62 1-2.

TOUCHES OF HUMAN NATURE.

Indightful Readings by Judge Bleckley and Atlanta literary people and people who enjoy delightful touches of human nature should not forget the reading by Judge Bieckley and Mr. Stanton, billed for tomorrow night.

Copious notices of Judge Bieckley's subject have alrendy been given. Every one who knows the judge, and particularly those who have heard him read, know that it will be a gem. Mr. Stanton will read several selections from his poems.

Miss Wallace, the librarian of the Young Men's Library Association, for the benefit of which institution the readings are to be given, is working very hard to secure a large house. She has a list of books which she hopes to purchase for the library with the proceeds of the entertainment. There should be no trouble in securing a large attendance to such a fine entertainment, particularly when it is in the interest of such a good cause and costs only 50 cents.

A GRAND CHORUS.

In the Fall Hundreds of Voices Will Go in Training.

WHY NOT A GRAND MUSICAL FESTIVALP

The Chautauqua Chorus Has Determined to Keep Up Rehearsals for Another Assembly and Perhaps a Festival.

Atlanta is to have a great choral society. Last night the chorus which has been assisting in the services at the chautauqua resolved on permanent organization.

This means that Atlanta is to have a chorus carefully selected and well trained, which will be the pride of the city and a stimulus to musical culture here.

Professor Davies, who has drilled this chorus is heartly in force of the meanward.

chorus, is heartily in favor of the movement chorus, is heartily in favor of the movement and it is probable that the bulk of the work will fall on him. There is no reason why Atlanta should not have a chorus of from eight hundred to a thousand voices which will always be ready to participate in a musical festival or any public occasion.

In October the rehearsals of the chorus will be started again in preparation for next year's chautauqua. In the event the chorus is strong, a musical festival may be given some time next year, possibly as early as

Atlanta can get up a musical festival which Admit can get up a musical restrict which would be an epoch in the south and she can just as well make the festival an annual feature. Low rates on the railroads would bring the people from all the country round,

A successful festival would give the city A successful festival would give the city prestige in musical circles and keep alive a keen interest in music throughout the entire section. The rehearsals of the chorus for the chautauqua were hurried. The work was not undertaken early enough. A number of young men joined the chorus to get tickets to the assembly, and perhaps this was the motive which induced some of the girls to take part. It was very clear that all members of the chorus did not sing. Some could not sing. It is probable that some of the chorus did not know one note from another.

the chorus did not know one note and a other.

One night a youth was urging a friend to go up in the chorus. "But I can't sing bass," said the party urged. "That makes no difference. You can hold the book up before your face as I do," was the reply. The chorus will have all these members weeded out when the drilling begins in the fall,

Another Chantauqua.

The Chantauqua Company comes out about

The Chaitauqua Company comes out about two thousand dollars short. No expense was spared. I was run in first-class style and the best entertainers on the platform were engaged. They came high but the management went in for getting the best! Dr. Talmage cost $800 for his lecture and sormon. Colonel Breckinridge got about three hundred dollars for his debute and Mr. Horr for his two appearances was paid over two for his two appearances was paid over two hundred dollars. Mme. Decca received about one thousand dollars in bank notes for her soprano notes. The total expenses for the two weeks are estimated at between six and seven thousand dollars. Had the attendance here exceed the tire week as it was the sec. een as good the first week as it was the sec neen as good the hirst week as it was the second the deficit would not have amounted to anything. The stockholders believe firmly and with reason that they can have a chautanqua next year and pay out all right, They will try it any way If the auditorium which been agitated is built in time and in a venient place down town, the assembly no doubt be held in it, as the more central the point the better the attendance will be.

No breakfast is complete without a cup of our famous Rijamo coffee. The Rijamo is growing in popularity every day, it is a combination coffee, so biended as to give the best results, both in strength and flavor. Why use poor coffee, weak coffee, mixed coffee, when you can always get our Rijamo? For four years it has possessed the same high quality, rich color and fine flavor that still characterizes it. We keep it only in the bean, fresh parched, but grind it when desired. Now, a word as to bread. Our Regal patent flour always gives the most uerfect results, whether used in 'pastry, bread or rolls. Dd you want rolls pure, light and as white as snow? You can always have them by using our Regal patent flour. The Regal possesses all the nutritious qualities of the wheat, yet is as white as snow, and is ground so perfectly that it never fails to rise. We always buy it direct from the same mill, and it never varies. Don't be misled and let them tell you that such and such flour is as good as the Regal. Get the best at once, and the problem of good bread will be solved.

Another necessity in a good breakfast is good butter. Now, we believe that it is known by every one that they can always get good butter at our store. Not only good butter, too, is kept scrupulously clean and nice. It is put up in one pound packages, wrapped in linen paper and kept in a refrigerator. A. M. Lupo, E. F. Sevier's Business Manager, Under Arrest,

CHARGED WITH LARCENY AFTER TRUST.

Mr. Sevier Says Lupo Didn't Make Full Returns, and Lupo Says He Intended Nothing Wrong.

A. M. Lupo, a young Atlanta man who was once engaged in business here, was arrested in Marietta, Ga., yesterday morning on a warrant sworn out by Mr. E. F. Sevier, the furniture man of this city. Lupo is charged with largery after trust He was brought to the city by detailed Officer Wilson yesteday afternoon and locked up at police hadquarters, where he awaits a hearing under the warrant.

Lupo was in the employ of the gentleman who caused his arrest until last Friday afternoon, when Mr. Sevier placed another man in Lupo's place and discharged him. Lupo's discharge was due, it is un-derstood, to Mr. Sevier's suspicions that his dealings were pot straight. The warrant and Lupe's arrest followed closely after his discharge.

Mr. E. F. Sevier is engaged in the furniture business in Atlanta, and has a branch house in Marietta. For several month has been the business manager of the Marietta branch. Sevier had greatest confidence in him and his weekly reports of business were always prompt and faultless. It seems, however, a few days ago the reports were not accompanied by the requisite amount of cash and Mr. Sevier's anxiety was aroused. He wrote to Lupo for an explanation, but heard nothing. As the days passed and no report was made of the money that had not been forwarded, Mr. Sevier became more and more anxious, and a few days ago sent one of his employes to Marietta to ascertain the condition of things. The messenger sent to Marietta return-The messenger sent to Marietta returned to the city and reported that Lupo was doing business as usual. Mr. Sevier again wrote to Lupo and asked for a full explanation of the matter. Receiving no explanation, Mr. Sevier on last Friday sent a man to Marietta to relieve Lupo of the management of the business. To the man who took his place Lupo stated that he would be in Atlanta yesterday and would see Mr. Sevier about the differences between them.

between them. Mr. Sevier was very much put out on account of Lupo's failure to arrange the matter at the proper time, and Saturday night he swore out a warrant against Lupo and placed it in the hands of the Atlanta police. The Marietta officials were noti-fied and yesterday Lupo was arrested at his home.

Lupo stated to a Constitution reporter that he had no intention to defraud Mr. Sevier and believed he could arrange the trouble. He said if he had intended fraud he would have skipped. He said he would have been in Atlanta of his own accord before the time he was brought here by an officer, if he had not been arrested. officer if he had not been arrested.

ATLANTA, GA., TUESDAY MORNING, JULY 18, 1893.

MRS. GRUNDY ALERT.

WAJOR CUMMING IS A POSSIBILITY Cleveland Is Being Pressed to Put a Georgian on the Bench.

CAPTAIN LOWRY'S SOUVENIR COIN

Was the First to Be Presented at the Tree ury for Redemption-Promotion for a former Atlantian.

Washington, July 17 .- (Special.)-There as an air of suppressed excitement about white house today and continual inquiries were made of Secretary Thurber as to whether any news had been heard from Buzzard's Bay. There was considerahle disappointment among the newsgatherers that nothing had been hard from the president or Mrs. Cleveland, In fixing the date for the extra session Mr. Cleveland did so with the purpose of living at Buzzard's Bay until the end of July. Mrs. Grundy has spread the report in Washington that today Baby Ruth was to be presented with a little playmate. The Vacancy on the Bench

In the department of justice today it was a matter of gossip that Attorney General Olney, of Massachusetts, would be appointed to the vacancy on the bench sed by the death of Justice Blatchford, of New York. It is known that Mr. Olney is dissatisfied with his present position, because it partakes too much of politics. He is a fine lawyer and would make a good judge. He neither likes nor understands the politics of his present office. The chief drawback is the fact Justice Gray also hails from Massachusetts, and it is not regarded as very probable that a second justice will be chosen from that state. A strong pressure is being brought to bear on the president to cause him to take the new justice from some one of the easterly states of the south. The south complains and justly, that she is not properly represented on the supreme bench. She has but one of the nine justices composing the court. Justice Jackson, of Tenssee. If the new justice should be chosen from one of the southern states east of the Alleghenies, he is apt to be either Judge Alvey, of Maryland, now chief justice of the court of appeals of this district, or Major Joseph B. Cumming, of Augusta, Ga. It is known that Major Cumming's name has been put before Mr. Cleveland. Should it go to either of the southern states west of the Alleghenies, the choice of the president would probably fall upon Senator Lindsay, of Kentucky. Either republican of the house, is seized with an idea. He proposes to introduce in the house, when it meets next month, a resolution to inquire into the workings of the pension office under Commissioner Lochren. He will take the somewhat remarkable ground that once an applicant has been examined and granted a pension, he is in this locarty. He apparently does not desire any demonstration beare the apparently does not desire any demonstration beared the apparently does not desire any demonstration beared the apparently does not desire any demonstration. the same condition as a man who has been once tried for an infraction of the law—that is, that he cannot be tried again for the same offense. Mr. Burrows appears to be entirely in earnest in regard to the proposition. According to it, the men who have been pensioned for baldheadedness, or for corns cannot be dropped. The gov ernment would have no redress against fraudulent pensions, and the deserters who are drawing pensions under the surprising ruling of Assistant Secretary Bus sey, would go right on drawing the sums

A Partisan Purpose. The management of the pension office by Raum was so scandalous that it is not surprising that Mr. Burrows wants to divert attention from it and to fasten some measure of blame on the present management. Every man who is getting the benefit of a fraudulent pension will sympathize heartily with Mr. Burrows's object. Nothing will come of it, of course, but its author has great hopes of partisan

Much Needed Improvements. The absence of the president and his family at Buzzard's Bay is being taken advantage of to thoroughly renovate the white house, and to make some domestic inges in the arrangement of the interior. President and Mrs. Cleveland's sleeping om will be, in the future, the chamber on the north side of the house, a favorite with them before, and the same room used by President Arthur in his day. Both are now decorate

President Harrison's old bedroom, known as the "Prince of Wales" room, is to be set apart the use of the president's daughter, and her nurse. To the Scene of Revolution Telegraph orders will be sent to Commis sloner Whiting, commanding the Alliance at Callao, Peru, to proceed at once with that vessel to Corrinto, the port nearest to Leon, where the latest revolution is at its height. Commander Whiting is instructed simply to use all possible dispatch to protect American interests there. It will take at least a week to make the trip. The Charleston and the Yorktown, now fitting out for service on the Pacific-station, will be ready to start in a few days. It is probable that one of them will be ordered to touch at Greyton, on the east coast, on the way down, in order to inspect the situation with a view to future action.

Mr. Edward Miles Gadsden qualified this morning for the position of superintendent of the money order system. Mr. Gadsden is a native of Charleston, S. C. He was educated at Union college in that state and at the law school of Washington and Lee university. For several years he practiced law in Atlanta, Ga., and entered money order office as a first-class clerk in 1884. He has received a number promotions since he entered the office. and has become familiar with every branch of the business of the office. Dr. Charles MacDonald, the retiring chief of the office, recommended Mr. Gadsden for the position because of his exceptional ability to discharge the duties.

Commodore Benedict Runs His Launch Into Buzzard's Bay.

Buzzard's Bay. Mass., July 17.—The steam yacht Oneida arrived off Monument Neck at 2:30 o'clock this morning with Commodore Benedict on board. He came ashore personally in his steam launch. When the reporter called he was enjoying a pleasant chat with President Cleveland in the south veranda. All that could be learned at Gray Gables regarding the unexpected arrival of the Oneida was that Mr. Benedict was enjoying a cruise, and had dropped in to pay respects to Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland.

It was also learned that Dr. Bryant had

It is expected that tomorrow a start will be made for the westward, where fishing will be resumed. During the evening the electric torchlights at the torpedo station and upon the yachts in the harbor gave an exhibition of their powers. It was witnessed by the president, though the operators were not aware of that fact.

THERE ARE TWO OF THEM.

Comet Gazers Discover That Their Comet Has a Companion. San Jose, Cal., July 17 .- An important discovery regarding the comet has been made at the Lick observatory. Photographic plates reveal the fact that the neavenly visitant is not alone in its glory, but has a companion. The second comet is enveloped in the tail of the first one, and shows distinctly as a nebulous-lke condensation. Its tail also merges into that of the other. Director Holden and the astronomers on the mountain are much elated. If appears to move in the same orbit exactly parallel, and at the same rate of speed. The discovery makes more certain the theory that the original force which throws out comets sends out more than one at a time. This theory was thought to be correct from the fact that more than one comet has been found from the same orbit.

Charleston, S. C., July 17.—Governor Tillman's state constabulary continued their work this afternoon of arresting persons charged with violation of the dispensary law. They gave bonds for their appearance and were released. The places of the arrested persons were searched but nothing contraband was found.

While the community is in favor of the enforcement of the law, there is deep indignation at the outrageous conduct of constables on Saturday. Hoyne Pepper, the constable who tried to shoot Chicco on Saturday in a trial justice's office, was bound over today in the sum of $500 for trial at the county sessions for assault and battery with intent to kill.

Who Will Succeed Stanford?

Governor Markham says he has not yet made up his mind as to whom he will appoint, but that he will make public his decision within a few days.

The Sherman Law Not Responsible for the Financial Depression.

IT IS ONE OF THE PERIODICAL CRISES Which Cannot Be Avoided That

Ails the Country. OTHER COUNTRIES HAVE TROUBLE.

And He's Sure the Sherman Law Did No Cause It-Bankers Not Disposed to Let Money Go.

Omaha, Neb., July 17 .- Senator H. M. Teller, of Colorado, the recognized leader of the free silver forces, was in Omaha this afternoon on his way home from the

"I have just come from a very profitable visit to the world's fair," said the senator, "and am on my way home. As to the silver question, everybody has heard plenty concerning it of late. That Colorado in general, does not endorse the rabid frothings of Governor Waite, Mr. Holden and one or two others, ought to go without saying. The condition of affairs in Colorado is bad enought, yet it might be worse. We might be without other resources than silver mining, but we are far from that ..

"Presumably the Sherman law will be repealed, although Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Sherman will, without doubt, come forth and protest against any such action as contemplated. There is a wrong distinction between Cleveland-Sherman bimetallism, and the genuine article. The former believes in a gold standard and in silver for money for subsidiary coinage. Can you call him a bimetallist who is a believer in an equal standard? Now, there is an error under which many persons in this country are laboring, and that is the belief that the Sherman law is responsible for all our present troubles. It is all rot to attribute financial depression to that source. The Sherman act is no more to blame for the present state of affairs than I am.

"Why is it responsible for the recent financial disaster in Australia? Australia has dropped far harder than this country has and so have several European states, notably Austro-Hungary. Besides these, how about India and the South American states? Can the Sherman act be held to account for their present difficuties? That's been bad and have been growing worsethat one of these periodical crises which cannot be avoided is upon us—hence the present deplorable state of affairs in this and other countries. "It is something that cannot be prevented at this age of the world. Time was, forty years ago, before the days of the general use of telegraph and steamships and railroads that such a crisis had not much chance to arise. People had time to cool down before they got excited. As it is now the world is really one huge community in interests, and no sooner is one country affected than the flashing over the wires precipitates a similar condition of affairs, if not an absolute panic. The main causes of local depression is the disinclination of bankers to let go of money."

A THREAT TO THE EAST.

New Orleans.

Pueblo, Col., July 17.—The more conservative element of the people of Colorado realize that the silver convention held at Denver the first of the week accomplished nothing toward the purpose for which it assembled. A proposition is on foot to call another convention, which shall aim at the pockets rather than the sympathies of those whom; it is hoped to convert to the those whom it is hoped to convert to the ideas of the west.

ideas of the west.

The proposed convention is to be composed of business men, and the direct object which is sought is a combination among the merchants with the intention of diverting the trade of Colorado and ad-of diverting the trade of Colorido and adjacent states from the wholesale trade of the east to that of the south.

It is argued that New Orleans is much nearer to the Rocky Mountain states than either New York, Boston or Philadelphia; that it is a seaport centrally located, from which can be furnished every article needed by the west upon terms could! cle needed by the west upon terms equally advantageous with those at present obtainnd this believed that by diverting this volume of trade from its accustomed channels the eyes of the eastern opponents of the silver bill will be opened and their assistance may be enlisted.

PAYING OUT GOLD.

Tressury Officials Say It Is to Get a Supply

Tressury Officials Say It Is to Got a Supply of Currency.

New York, July 17.—Much curiosity has been shown in banking circles as to the cause of the treasury officials voluntarily paying out gold in settlement of clearing house balances and for government checks over the counter. when some form of currency would have been more desirable to the payee. Conrad N. Jordan, assistant treasurer in this city, was asked for an explanation, especially in view of the fact that the government desired to build up the gold reserve. Mr. Jordan, assistant treasure in this city was asked for an explanation, especially in view of the fact that the government desired to build up the gold reserve. Mr. Jordan city, was asked for an explanation, especially in view of the fact that the government desired to build up the gold reserve. Mr. Jordan declined to give any reasant for the treasury paying out gold as stated, but suggested that it might be inferred to be due to a desire to provide for some need for a supply of currency at no distant date.

He scouted the suggestion, however, that has been made, that it was because the government did not wish to issue any more gold certificates until the gold is $100,000,000, the theory of the suggestion being that gold is more readily had in that form, the government storing it free of cost.

From another source it was learned that the government has been paying out gold because it was feared that unless it made provision in time it would be unable to supply the demands for currency that it expects to be made upon it in a short time for moving the crops. Leaving out the $5,000,000 of greenbacks which the government require to keep on hand for redemption purposes, the United States treasury has only $15,000,000 of greenbacks available, counting the supplies at all the subtreasuries. If, as has been supposed, the great scarcity of currency has been caused by the precautionary measures taken by hanks throughout the country to fortify themselves during the recent stringency, and the currency is in the vauits of the country banks, then there would not be a very great demand on the treasury for money to move the crops, but, if, as has also been suggested, the missing currency is not locked up in the country banks, but is hoarded by the people, then the United States treasury expects to have all it can do to supply the demand upon it for currency for money to move the crops, but, if, as has also been suggested, the missing currency is not locked up in the country banks, but there would not be a very great demand on the treasury for money to move the crops, but, if, as has also been suggested, the missing currency is not locked up in the country banks, but there would not be a very gre

The Star this evening gives publicity to the following statement in regard to the gold payments from the United States sub-treasury in New York: Considerable effort is being made by the cial agents here to discover the motive behind these payments. But the department is as close mouthed as a clam. The explanation got through private sources is that the department is trying to take advantage of small and convenient currency for internal business to pinch the banks as the banks have pinched the government by storing gold. The banks are greatly in need of small bills for current business transactions. The theory is advanced that if they cannot get what they need of this sort of currency by any other menas they will have to make terms with the treasury which would involve their exchanging gold or gold certificates in large quantities for notes and certificates of small denominations.

It is said that the department cannot afford to pay out gold on the drafts presented by the banks if by so doing they can cut off the source farough which the banks would get their small notes and put them to sufficient inconvenience to bring them to terms. The banks understand that if they want small notes and certificates they can secure them by taking large quantities and paying for them in gold, and it is the theory of the department that by pluching them pretty closely they can be forced to do this. It is very probable that the issue of gold certificates will not be resumed if the gold reserve gets above a hundred million, as it is not clear that the law is mandatory in requiring a renewal of this issue after it has been stopped by reason of the reserve falling below a hundred millions.

Denver, Col., July 17.-The first failure in Denver since 1874 occurred this morning, when the People's Savings, the Colorado Savings and the Rocky Mountain Dime and Dollar Savings banks closed their Dime and Dollar Savings banks closed their doors. An estimate of the assets are $1,500,000 with liabilities of $1,300,000. The Colorado Savings bank, of which F. K. Atkins is president, and C. C. Atkins, cashier, in their statement to the assignee, Alfred Buttons, placed the accounts due depositors at $425,108.54: certificates of deposits, $50,609.36: due other banks, $3,236.54: cashier's checks, $625. Their assets over liabilities in what is declared to be good commercial paper, well secured, is $73,063.72. F. W. Woodbury is president and C. F. A detailed statement has not yet been made, but from the books of the institution it would appear that the assets are $156,803.53 and statement has not yet been made, but from the books of the institution it would appear that the assets are $15,68,03.53 and the liabilities $105,654.32. The officers of the institution positively assert that the depositors will not lose a dollar.

It is understood that all the assignments were preconcerted and was done for self-protection and for the protection of the depositors. The direct cause of the failures was the universal hard times and inability to realize on securities. The president of the exchange declares that every depositor will be paid in full and that the institutions will resume again. A run on the Denver Savings bank was in progress today. The bank took advantage of the thirty and sixty days' notification hav and is paying out no amounts over $25.

President Lawrence, of the People's Savings, said this morning that the bank, up to six weeks ago, had a most successful career, having in deposits $1,300,000 and had paid to its depositors in interest $112,482. The causeless run began on May 1st and really continued up to last Saturday night, when the entire available means of the bank were exhausted, and nothing was left but to assign. The officers of the bank pledged their estates to its support, but the feeling that has been engendered among eastern banks and financial institutions by the recently published expressions and demonstrations that have engendered among eastern banks and man-cial institutions by the recently published expressions and demonstrations that have been heralded from Colorado, a thirty days' notice for $100,000 signed by Col-cardo parties worth $4,500,000, to raise days' notice for $100,000 signed by Colorado parties worth $4,500,000, to raise immediate money was not worth the paper it was written on. Mr. Lawrence added: "Most persistent efforts were made to obtain temporary assistance to tide the bank over, and up to four days ago this necessary assistance was promised by eastern correspondent banks, but since the doings of the recent convention in this city became known all over the content. the coings of the recent convention in this city became known all over the country, these promises were canceled by telegraph and no alternative was left us with notices to the amount of $500,000, for withdrawals of deposits maturing in the near future staring us in the face and the cash on hand paid down to $223, but to make a full assignment for the protection. make a full assignment for the protection and benefit of all."

The Grand Avenue bank, a private in-The Grand Avenue bank, a private institution, assigned this morning to James B. Pickel, who immediately took charge. The assets are placed at $200,000 and the liabilities at $140,000. The Grand Avenue bank holds ample gilt-edged securities to meet obligations, it is claimed, and the officials say they expect to resume business shortly. It was rumored Saturday that this bank had closed, but it appears the officials secured money sufficient to tide them over till today, when it was hoped some other securities could be realized on. On account of the scarcity, however, this was impossible. Confidence in the ability of the bank to pay dollar for dollar is expressed by other bankers here, and no excitement by other bankers here, and no excitement over the temporary suspension is manifes over the temporary suspension is manifested.

Despite assertions of strength and the publishing of a favorable statement Saturday, the Missouri National bank was taken possession of by the comptroller of the currency shortly before noon today. The bank was closed and it was impossible to get a statement from the officers. The Missouri National is a new bank, having opened in January, 1891. It has a capital stock paid in of $250,000 and its surplus is $36,000. According to the statements Saturday, issued in compliance with the custom of the comptroller, cash and sight exchange were placed at $271,024, and the denosit at $900,763.

Six Kansas state banks went in the financial flurry today. They are the bank of Hitter & Doubleday, of Columbus; the Johnson City bank, of Johnson City; the Bank of Weir City, the Bank of Pleasanton, the Caney Valley bank, of Caney, and the Bank of Meade, at Meade Center. It is impossible to obtain statements at this time. The banks have all been taken possession of by the state bank commissioner.

Slipped Into an Officer's Hand at the Albany, N. Y., Penitentiary,

TELLS OF A DIABOLICAL PLOT

To Murder the Officials by Convicts Planning Escape.

SEARCH OF THE CELLS IS MADE,

And the Information Proves to Be Correct The Convict Who Gave the Thing Away Was Pardoned.

Albany, N. Y., July 17 .- The warden of the prison at Dannemora came down to Albany late this afternoon, and, proceed-ing to the executive chamber, unfolded to Governor Flower a brutal scheme of a number of long term prisoners confined in the prison to gain their freedom, which included the cold-blooded murder of several of the prison guards. One of the prisoners, who was asked to enter into the murder ous attempt to escape, refused and it was through him that the prison authorities became aware of the plot. The governor, when aware of the facts, immediately pardoned the prisoner who had the courage and manliness to prevent human slaughter. At noon yesterday, in Clinton prison, as the prisoners filed through the prison corridor, in lockstep, on their way past Principal Keeper McKenna, to obtain their rations for dinner, one of the prisoners slipped into the hand of the principal keeper a piece of brown wrapping paper, two feet long by a foot wide, which was written upon both sides in lead pencil. The writing gave the details of the plot. It is said that two doors had already been cut and when the guards had made their round two men, one armed with an iron bar and the other with a knife, would steal upon and murder them. They were to possess themselves of the guards' guns, but how they were to get out of the hall was not known. The idea of committing murder caus he convict to inform. The warden told the governor that, after the prisoners had finished with dinner, the two prisoners referred to in the communication were removed from the other prisoners and their looks showed the truth of the prisoner's statement. Hidden in the bed ticking was found a long, sharp knife. In the tick on the cot of the other cell was found a crowbar, drills, files and a cold chisel. Thus was the prisoner's information confirmed in every detail. On account of their relation with Reach and Wright, the two leading spirits, the warden caused an examination to be made of the cells of the other two prisoners, Joyce and Russell, both serving twenty years. In Joyce's cell was found several pieces of iron in his hash can. which were hidden from view with a covering of hash. The warden thinks these pieces of iron were in connection with stockings, to be used as slungshots. Both Joyce and Russell admitted to the plot. Joyce, who worked in the shoeshop with the prisoner who gave the plot away, said to the warden after the discovery: "Don't put that man back in the shop with me, I know the d-d man who gave
